

Women Registrants Liable for Back Poll Taxes, Ruling

Those Who Did Not Register Last Year Are Required to Pay a Fee of Only $1.

ATTORNEY GENERAL GIVES HIS OPINION

Tax Collector Awaits Instructions — Woman's League Anxious to Have Matter Decided.

Women voters, upon registration, must pay poll taxes for all years since they became eligible to vote, whether that goes back to the date of the 1902 act or the year when they were 21, according to an opinion of Attorney General George M. Napier rendered Monday to Mrs. E. B. Chamberlain, president of the Georgia League of Women Voters, in response to her request for an interpretation of the 1902 act, which amended the act concerning the elective franchise upon women.

Mr. Napier holds that where women did not register last year, although eligible to do so, they are required now to pay only the poll tax itself of $1. However, where they did register last year, but failed to pay the poll tax, he holds that they are now liable to pay the tax, if a, costs, etc.

Collector Uncertain. Tax Collector Richardson, of Fulton county, stated Monday, after being informed of this opinion, that he could not now state whether he would abide by this method. He stated that the ruling had not been made to him, and that before he could decide such a question he would have to consult with his attorney, who in turn would ask for an opinion from the attorney general, to be rendered to him.

Registration Week. The League of Women Voters is holding a special registration week beginning today. This is intended to bring out all the eligible women voters possible, in order that their names may be included on the registration lists.

A registration office will be maintained at 24 and 26 Peachtree Avenue during the week, at which place all women who have paid their taxes may register. Officials of the tax collector's office will be on hand every day during office hours. The office will open this morning at 9 o'clock.

Women who have not paid their taxes must go to the office of the tax collector in the courthouse before 10 o'clock.

AUTO ACCIDENT MAY PROVE FATAL

Miss Francis McKelvey Receives Spinal Injuries as Car Overturns in Ditch Near Camilla.

Camilla, Ga., April 30.—(Special.) Ed Norris and Misses Louise Ward, Eva Jones and Francis McKelvey were seriously injured near here on the Dixie highway when their automobile turned over into a ditch as they were attempting to pass another car. Miss Ward was driving at the time.

Hasty examination revealed that McKelvey received serious spinal injuries which physicians fear will prove fatal. It also is feared that the other women in the car are seriously injured. The automobile was damaged.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY IN THE CONSTITUTION (FACSIMILES)

AUSTRIA.

VIENNA.—The Prince of Wales, accompanied by Prince Arthur, visited the Exposition Building yesterday. Over seven thousand people were present to welcome the prince and his party. The prince and his party were to be welcomed by the Exposition, only one hundred of which can be accommodated. It will be the end of June before the prince will be in full show.

The opening ceremonies will be devoted to military display. At a meeting of the American exhibitors at Vienna great indignation was expressed at the fact that the American exhibitors had left no list of the exhibitors, nor the plan of arrangement of the places for the American exhibitors. Everything American is in confusion. The exhibitors, however, are affording all facilities for classification of American goods.

SPAIN.

MADRID.—Don Alfonso is near Barcelona in the Providence of Barcelona, at the head of a band of two hundred Carlists. His wife accompanies him. The Carlists continue to burn railway stations, using petroleum for their operations. They have also torn up the railroad track and destroyed the telegraph wires at several points in the past few days. Their military operations, however, have been much restricted by the activity of the troops. The government is anxious that the insurrection will be entirely suppressed.

SENATOR GLASS WILL ADDRESS WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Carter Glass, United States senator from Virginia and secretary of the treasury during the Wilson administration, will address the mid-annual council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at the Baptist Tabernacle on Friday, May 11, according to a telegram received Monday from Senator Glass by Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the Atlanta Women's club.

Senator Glass is one of the most influential democrats in the country. He is also owner and editor of two powerful democratic newspapers in Virginia.

SPECULATIVE ORGY IN SUGAR CHARGED BY U. S. LAWYERS

Hearing of Government's Petition to Restrain Raw Sugar Futures Trading Adjourned Until May 7.

New York, April 30.—Hearing of the government's application for a temporary injunction to restrain raw sugar futures trading on the New York coffee and sugar exchange was adjourned until May 7, today, after the government had presented arguments to sustain its petition and filed a mass of documents and affidavits. The exchange, its clearing association and the 23 past and present officers and members who have been subpoenaed, took no action in today's proceedings except to file an answer to the government's petition denying the charge that the transactions on the exchange constitute a conspiracy in restraint of trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Orgy of Speculation. Assistant Attorney-General A. T. Seymour and Special Assistant J. T. Fowler in presenting the government's case asserted that since February 7 an orgy of speculation has been indulged in through the instrumentality of the exchange and its clearing association and that enormous quantities of raw sugar, more than the total stocks then in existence, have been the subject of fictitious or "paper sales." The result, they said, was that the price of raw and refined sugars had been increased more than two cents a pound to the consumer. Interstate and foreign trade and commerce were affected by the operation.

Eager to Win Votes. The politicians, eager to win votes and indifferent as to methods, have undertaken to correct grievances without either the power or in fact any sincere desire to do so. The result is that the grievances are aggravated and merely corrected. Investigation in the two states which have provided theaters for many radical ventures in the past clearly establishes the fact that the people who live within the respective borders have a lot to be thankful for.

Business generally is good. Silver is bringing the highest price in fifty years; copper is above normal pre-war rates; the live stock industry is beginning to recover; beet sugar soaring; agricultural conditions no worse than in other states that suffer from the natural effects of war time inflation; wholesale and retail trade vastly improved over a year ago; labor demand greater than the visible supply; the death rate going down; educational standards elevated; wages higher than for three years. To offset these manifold benefits the cost of production in swelling in Colorado and Wyoming as elsewhere, living expenses keeping just ahead of the price.

Near East Meet Again in Danger Of Disruption

Chester Concession and Syrian Situation Are Points at Issue.

Lausanne, April 30.—The threat of a second disruption hangs over the Near East peace conference here. French and Turkish differences over the American Chester concession and the mobilization of troops along the Syrian border may produce as grave a crisis when the conference resumes its full session Tuesday as did the quarrel over Mosul oil rights, which caused the breakup of the first Lausanne gathering.

Though the conference took no official notice of these developments Monday, the Chester deal and the French decision to send two divisions of troops to Syria, were the chief topics discussed by individual delegations.

Puzzled Over Tangle. International experts puzzled over the new tangle resulting from the signing of the Chester contract, which sets aside Turkish grants made in 1914 to Frenchmen.

The contract, which grants American and British capitalists the right to rebuild Anatolia along modern lines and develop certain leased territory for the marketing of oil and minerals, was formally signed at Constantinople Monday by Colonel Clayton Kennedy, of the Ottoman-American Development company and Feizi Bey, Turkish commissioner of public works. The signatures were attached in the face of French protests and while the allies were planning to make the Chester affair an issue at Lausanne.

Work under the concession will soon become an accomplished fact, making the allied objections still more difficult. Actual labor on the scheme will begin as soon as the plans are completed.

Syrian Boundary. Meanwhile the Syrian boundary troubles augments the possibilities of final disagreement at the peace conference here. France so far has answered what it regarded as a Turkish military gesture in kind. Maintaining that the massing of Angora troops along the Syrian border is an "incident to war" and calculated as a bluff to stampede the allies at Lausanne, France has ordered two divisions of about 20,000 men to proceed at once from Morocco and Algeria to reinforce French troops in Syria.

General Weygand, the new French high commissioner in Syria, will leave France Thursday on a cruiser, expecting to find the African reserve troops already arrived when he reaches the city.

FAIRLIE STREET WIDENING PROJECT NOW UNDER WAY

Work From Marietta Street to Railroad Tracks Started Monday Morning.

MAYOR IS SATISFIED; COST TO BE $112,500

Griffin Construction Company Puts Large Corps of Workmen on Street to Rush Work.

Actual work on the Fairlie street widening project, extending from Marietta street to the railroad tracks, which has been hanging fire in city council for more than a year, was begun Monday morning by the Griffin Construction company, successful bidders, following final approval of the contracts, which were signed last Thursday by Mayor Walter A. Sims. A full corps of workmen, teams and machinery used in razing a number of brick structures owned by the A. W. Calhoun estate, which are located directly in the pathway of the thoroughfare, began the task early Monday morning. It is expected that the project will have been completed by the middle of August, according to the contractors.

Mayor Satisfied. Mayor Sims expressed satisfaction that the work has at last begun after a number of extensive delays due to litigation with property owners and inability of council, the bond commission and the city planning commission to reach a satisfactory agreement on the widening measure. Cost of the work will aggregate $112,500, of which property owners whose holdings are affected by the opening of the thoroughfare will pay half and the remainder is to be paid by the city from street improvement bond funds.

As soon as the work reaches a state that will permit traffic to pass through Fairlie street to the railroad yards, the Forsyth street underpass at both north and south entrances of the Forsyth street viaduct, will be closed. This will be done some time during August, provided the work progresses as per schedule, it was stated.

Thoroughfare Widened. The new thoroughfare will be widened 20 feet, this additional space to be taken from the building occupied by the Beck and Gregg Hardware company on the eastern side of the present 10-foot alley way, giving it a total of 30 feet, and by removing a two-story brick structure directly in the rear of the hardware store which completely blocked the widened area.

"I am delighted that actual work on this project has begun," declared Mayor Sims. "It seemed that the city could never get started on it because of numerous delays experienced by certain technicalities. These have all been settled now and I signed the contracts last Thursday. The buildings will be removed and the street will be opened to traffic by the middle of August, according to provisions in the contract."

Forsyth Underpass. "Work on closing the Forsyth street underpass will not be begun until August," it was stated.

URGES REMOVAL OF COUNTY JUDGE

Governor of Florida Takes Action as Result of Probe of Recent Death of Convict.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Tallahassee, Fla., April 30.—Governor Hardee today recommended to the senate that County Judge B. F. Willis be removed from office on charges of malfeasance growing out of the death of Martin Tabert, of Munich, N. D., in the private convict lease camp of the Putnam Lumber company, at Clara.

He was the second official of Leon county to be recommended for removal by the executive as a result of Tabert's death. The senate took its usual course in handling the governor's recommendation. It went into executive session and then a committee of two, consisting of Senators Stokes and MacWilliams, was appointed to make a report on the recommendation.

The two senators are members of the joint investigating committee who received testimony on which the governor's recommendations were based. Mr. Stokes said tonight he would communicate with Judge Willis in order that the official might prepare his defense. Judge Willis was charged in this testimony before the committee with having conspired with Sheriff J. R. Jones to "railroad" men to the camp of the Putnam Lumber company at Clara, for which the sheriff admitted he received $20 a head. In temperate use of whiskey was also charged against the judge.

Sheriff Jones was removed from office last week. The governor's message carried the recommendation.

CRUELTY TO CALL YOUR WIFE SNAKE DECLARES JUDGE

New York, April 30.—Not by the farthest stretch of poetic license can a man call his wife a snake. It is plain cruelty, that's all. Thus Supreme Justice Benedict, of Brooklyn, ruled Monday in granting Mrs. John Bloomfield $18 a week and counsel fees pending the hearing of her husband's suit for divorce.

Mr. Bloomfield, a dentist, alleged his wife was immature, and still under the influence of a haggling, nagging mother. His wife retaliated by charging that he had called her a "milstone about his neck," and a "snake."

HEARING IS BEGUN TO TEST RESERVE BANK AUTHORITY

Argument Started in Supreme Court in Two Cases in Which Par Clearance Rule Is Assailed.

Washington, April 30.—Argument was begun in the supreme court today in two cases brought to test the authority of federal reserve banks to compel member and non-member banks to clear checks at par.

The issues came from the One from North Carolina, brought by the Farmers and Merchants bank of Monroe, N. C., and other banks, involved the power of states to authorize a charge on exchange or discount for cashing checks and from Georgia, involving the American Bank and Trust company and challenged the validity of the federal statutes under which the federal reserve banks are organized.

Those opposing the position of the federal reserve banks asserted that it is highly important to the welfare of the smaller banks that they should receive the revenue to be derived from the exchange collected upon cashing checks. The federal reserve banks contended that the exchange or discount was a material handicap upon merchants and others who received checks from out-of-town and that unless such checks were cashed at par it would be necessary for those receiving them to make the drawer of the check pay the collection costs.

"Frame Conditions." He said that it will be the duty of the senate to "frame conditions" under the first two suggestions of the secretary of state, and it also may be assigned that the senate may very possibly originate and propose other conditions.

Suggestions for reservations thus far have taken three forms: 1. Election of world court judges directly by members of nations without working through the medium of the league assembly and council. 2. Appointment of an American judge by the president without reference to the election of other judges by the league. 3. Stipulation, through a reservation, that in electing judges the league assembly shall restrict the British empire to one vote.

Farmer-Senator Wants Close-Up Of World Court

Brookhart to Leave His Hogs and Interview European Judges Awhile.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES. Washington, April 30.—Senator Smith Willard Brookhart, Iowa hater, advocate of plain living and plain speaking, wants to get a close view of the world court and boiled-shirt European diplomacy in action before he makes up his mind on President Harding's international court plan.

"What do I think of the international court? That's just what I'm going to Europe to find out. I'll tell what I think about it all when I get back," he said, as he hustled about his office Monday, preparing to leave for New York, whence he sails Wednesday.

Brookhart is going to visit The Hague, watch the court in action, and talk to the judges, whom he will cross-question to the minutest detail. Raised on the farm, away from all the artificial glamor, characteristic of Europe, he will display innate curiosity of the average farmer before the side show wonders at a county fair.

"And now I've got to go out and get a hair cut."

Won't Need Much. An Iowa farmer through and through that's Brookhart. And all the other preparation he'll need for his pilgrimage to Europe is a collar or two, and a shirt or two. His old felt hat, which he wears down over his eyes—a habit necessary under the Iowa sun—will compare strangely with the silk hats of the diplomats he wants to watch in action. He has refused to wear formal dress clothes, even to official functions here. His business suit and a pair of light tan shoes are always sufficient. The hair cut is his only concession to European elegance.

"I've just been out home to plant some more apple trees," he said, explaining his ignorance of recent developments here. Brookhart has a large farm in Iowa, with hogs and everything, and an apple orchard of 3,500 trees.

Always living close to the soil, Brookhart can be depended on to see the European picture with the clear vision of the average western farmer. Boiled shirts, high hats and smooth-talking mean nothing to him. He'll watch the European scene and judge it, as he does a herd of cattle or a crop of corn, and he'll tell just what he thinks about it all when he returns. His view will have weight in Iowa and throughout the corn belt. Brookhart has been to Europe before.

G. O. P. WORKING FOR COMPROMISE ON WORLD COURT

Leaders Are Making Every Possible Effort to Knit Up Republican Difference Over Plan.

SENATORS PLANNING TO 'FRAME CONDITIONS'

Europe Is Ready to Make Concessions But Just How Far Powers Will Go Declared Doubtful.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER. United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 30.—Efforts to knit up the republican differences over the world court are progressing quietly through influential friends of the administration. Both sides are being sounded out regarding modifications in the electoral machinery of the court which would sever it entirely from the league of nations. If the nebulous suggestions are regarded as practicable by the white house and the state department and if they will make the court acceptable to the regular republican anti-league senators like Lodge, Watson and McCarroll, they will be worked into definite shape for consideration in the senate foreign relations committee next December.

Senator Lodge, in a letter to Governor Hyde, of Missouri, has indicated that the senate would probably make reservations of its own in addition to those suggested by Secretary of State Hughes.

"Frame Conditions." He said that it will be the duty of the senate to "frame conditions" under the first two suggestions of the secretary of state, and it also may be assigned that the senate may very possibly originate and propose other conditions.

Suggestions for reservations thus far have taken three forms: 1. Election of world court judges directly by members of nations without working through the medium of the league assembly and council. 2. Appointment of an American judge by the president without reference to the election of other judges by the league. 3. Stipulation, through a reservation, that in electing judges the league assembly shall restrict the British empire to one vote.

These three suggestions are still in crude form, but they represent the direction in which compromise influences are working. The whole purpose is to dissociate the court and the league. Whether any of the suggestions thus far made would ever be accepted by the European powers is a question. They are represented as being willing to make modifications in order to meet American sentiment, but whether they would consent to a complete reorganization of the electoral machinery is another matter.

However, the administration friends who are bringing forth suggestions are interested solely in bridging the chasm between the regular republicans, who want the court but fear the influence of its parent, and the Hardin-Hughes group.

WEISENTHAL HELD FOR BIG SHORTAGE

Secret Service Men Board Liner to Make Arrest. $300,000 in Express Funds Involved.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. New York, April 30.—Secret service agents and members of the New York bomb squad today boarded the incoming liner American Legion and arrested Philip Weisenthal, of New York, in connection with the embezzlement of $300,000 from the American Express company in a series of international transactions involving forged manifests.

ELIAS SAUNDERS FORTUNE STORY BRANDED FAKE

Washington, April 30.—A replica of the famous "Spanish heir" fraud is being operated among southern Indians to the great inconvenience of the interior department. Persons, as yet unidentified, have been busy in Georgia and South Carolina seeking descendants of Elias Saunders, a member of an Indian tribe residing in Maryland more than 100 years ago, and relating to these the story of a $300,000 fund held by the government for distribution to them.

The department announced today that no claim has ever been made in behalf of the Maryland tribe now long extinct, that if filed such claims would have no standing since the tribe was under state control and, finally, that no such fund is being held.

Government Ships Will Bar Liquors Despite Rum Rule

GERMAN LEADERS WILL BID AGAIN TODAY FOR PEACE

Stinnes and Others Who Made Huge Sums Out of War Must Furnish Reparations Fund.

BY FERDINAND JAHN. Berlin, April 30.—Germany proposes to pay her reparations account to the allies by heavily taxing Hugo Stinnes and the other industrialists who amassed great wealth during the war. This was revealed Monday when further details of Germany's new reparations offer, which is to be made Tuesday, became known.

The government, in a note to the allies and the United States, will offer to settle for 30,000,000,000 gold marks, which is to be raised by an international loan. The national railroads of the country are to be offered as security for the loan.

Germany will promise the allies to institute financial reforms and to compel the industrialists to pay heavy taxes to carry the reparations burden.

Will Offer Railroads. The fact that the national railroads will be offered as security instead of the iron and steel works of the industrialists is taken to mean that Stinnes and his associates are not heartily back of the government's offer.

Furthermore, the intention of the government to force the industrialists to bear a share of the tax burden—which they hitherto have been able to dodge—is considered as further evidence that they are not lending their support to the government.

The government plans to turn the 30,000,000,000 gold marks, raised by the international loan, over to the allies and to pay any additional sum that an international commission of experts decided that Germany should pay.

Advices from Paris indicate that the government will not accept the offer.

$60,000 in Loot Taken by Bandits In Raid On Home

Woman, Daughter and Maid Are Found Bound and Gagged.

Atlantic City, April 30.—Four armed men bound and gagged Mrs. Florence Richardson, wife of a Philadelphia exporter and part owner of the Washington Senators, her daughter and a maid, and escaped from the pretentious Richardson seashore home with $60,000 worth of jewelry and silverware.

The robbery and attacks became known Monday night after Mrs. Richardson had been under physicians' care suffering from shock and after an all-day search failed to reveal clues.

Mrs. Richardson, whose husband is in England on business, awoke early Monday to find two men ransacking her room. They seized her before she could cry out, dragged her from bed and gagged and tied her with sheets.

Mary, her 14-year-old daughter, aroused by the commotion, rushed in and likewise disposed of after hitting the arm of one of the men. Her maid, waking and suspecting, was caught telephoning police by two other burglars. The four then fled through a window and down a ladder by which they entered.

BISHOP HARDING OF WASHINGTON DIOCESE, IS DEAD

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Washington, April 30.—Bishop Alfred Harding, of the Protestant Episcopal church, Washington diocese, died at his home here tonight after several weeks' illness.

Born at Lisburn, Ireland, in 1852, Bishop Harding came to the United States when he was 15 years old. He was educated at Trinity and Berkely Divinity schools, Connecticut. His first charge was at Geneva, N. Y., going to Baltimore as assistant rector of St. Paul's parish.

In 1887 he came to Washington and until 1909 when he was consecrated bishop of Washington, he served as rector of St. Paul's church here. Bishop Harding's illness had been diagnosed as heart trouble aggravated by overwork.

Private Owners Expected, However, to Devise Means of Benefiting by Supreme Court Decision.

PROHIBITION PLAN TO ASK ACTION BY CONGRESS

State Department Officials Are Now Concerned Over Probability of Retaliatory Measures.

Washington, April 30.—The government-owned merchant fleet will continue bone dry beyond the three-mile limit, regardless of the supreme court's decision that liquor may be carried by American ships on the high seas. President Harding has decided to adhere scrupulously to the spirit as well as the letter of the prohibition act. He will presently make known his intention not to take advantage of the loophole offered by the supreme court.

But private owners of ships under the American flag are likely to be less conscientious. Floating bars probably will be opened in large numbers by Americans to bob at anchor just beyond the three-mile limit where they can put liquor aboard out-going ships and take it off of incoming ones—all under the gun muzzles of the helpless rum chasers scouting along the edge of the forbidden zone.

Complications Certain. Political and international complications growing out of the court's decision Monday will be far-reaching. Briefly, it was held that no ship, American or foreign, can bring liquor within the three-mile zone, even as ship's stores soaked upon land. The court overturned previous rulings of Attorney General Daugherty and held that American ships are free to carry liquor when outside the territorial waters, though it conceded congress the right to regulate this traffic, or to suppress it altogether.

The prospects are that congress will enact a law suppressing it and making American ships bone dry both when inside and when outside of the three-mile zone. Drys set about rounding up their forces to this end immediately upon learning of the supreme court's action. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, said congress would take action when it reassembles in December. Wets are confident they will win if the fight is reopened and both sides will use the question as a test of prohibition in advance of the coming presidential campaign. Wets are eager to show that the tide is turning in their favor while drys are equally determined to prove that the country is more favorable to prohibition than ever.

All Hopes Dashed. The supreme court's decision regarding American ships brought a brief moment of pleasurable anticipation to prospective tourists, who visioned themselves sailing across the seas on the giant Leviathans and other great liners operated by the shipping board. But it was soon learned that President Harding would continue to adhere to the spirit of prohibition. Chairman Lasker, of the shipping board, who originally insisted upon serving liquor on government ships, contending that this was necessary in order to compete successfully with foreign ships maintaining bars, announced he would stand by the president's instructions of last week.

Preacher Jailed
For Slashing Man

Wounded Man at Stone Mountain Charges Attempt to Wreck His "Happy Home."

Decatur, Ga., April 30.—(Special.)
Charles Bradford, a stone cutter at Stone Mountain, is in a serious condition from knife wounds, and J. H.
Simmons, also of Stone Mountain, who claims to be a retired Baptist preacher, is in the DeKalb county jail here charged with assault with intent to murder, following a fight between the two at Stone Mountain this afternoon.

Simmons, who was brought here by
W. M. Langford, chief of police in Stone Mountain, himself is suffering from painful bruises about the head and face, said to have been inflicted by Bradford with a chair just prior to the cutting.
According to the story told DeKalb county officers by Simmons, he lives with his daughter at Stone Mountain. He says that today's trouble with Bradford is the outgrowth of an old grudge between the families.
Simmons claims that Bradford came to the home of his daughter, with whom he lives, this afternoon with a letter received by Bradford's wife, which he accused Simmons of writing in an effort to break up their "happy home." Simmons says he declined writing the letter, declaring that it was not even in his hand writing.

Bradfield, according to Simmons, then picked up a chair and twice knocked him down with it. Fearful for his life, he says, he grabbed a large, home-made meat knife and started "carving" Bradford with it.
Simmons' daughter, Mrs. Louis
Bradfield, a sister-in-law of Charlie Bradfield, attempted to separate the two men and received painful cuts, inflicted by Bradford with a pocket knife, according to Simmons.

LIQUOR IS BARRED
ON ALL VESSELS

October, which ordered that all ships' bars be closed.
To what extent floating bars might be established along the three-mile limit for the purpose of stocking up outward-bound craft is doubtful. Officials point out that it costs something like $2,000 to stop even a comparatively small liner and put off a boat. The liquor would have to be transferred by lighters and in a rough sea this would be a tedious and difficult operation. They doubt whether steamship companies would regard the extra expense as worth while. To put in at Halifax to take on liquor would mean a loss of 24 hours. Officials here do not believe the big steamship companies will bother to take on liquor for their eastward voyages. Small tramp steamers might do so as a means of attracting patronage.

Treasury officials are drafting regulations to govern customs officers. But they are frankly skeptical of being able to enforce the dry restriction. They have neither the personnel nor the craft to board and search all incoming ships at the three-mile zone. To search a giant liner would require a large staff of workers, familiar with every nook and corner where a case of liquor might be hidden away for safekeeping until the return voyage.

State department officials are concerned as to the possibility of reprisals by foreign nations. Secretary Hughes is in the midst of delicate negotiations to obtain the voluntary co-operation of the British in preventing rum shipment on vessels destined for the United States. While foreign nations will not question America's right to bar ships with liquor entering her ports, they may in retaliation require that American ships, when putting in at their ports, to comply with their laws. Great Britain requires that liquor for medicinal purposes be on board. France and Italy require wine rations for crews. If those countries now decide to insist upon literal adherence to their laws by American ships, embarrassing complications are certain to confront the American government.

American Ship Victory.
New York, April 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—American ships will be placed on an equal basis with those of foreign lines as the result of the supreme court's ruling today permitting United States vessels to sell liquor beyond the three-mile limit, provided none is brought into port, it was declared tonight by Ira H. Campbell, counsel to the American Steamship Owners' association.

Mr. Campbell led his assertion on that portion of the ruling which prohibits foreign vessels from bringing their stocks of wet goods within the three-mile zone, thus making all ships actually dry when they are on board. Foreign owners were silent although the ruling was discussed at a meeting of the international maritime union.

American Ship Victory.
Although he said he had not read the decision, Mr. Campbell said from press reports he considered the decision a distinct victory for American owners.

"It places American ships on a parity with foreign-owned and operated vessels," he said, "and removes at once a serious disadvantage to the operation of American ships. The decision should be especially advantagetous to American ships in the South American and Oriental trade where light wines and beer are considered part of the food diet. I believe the decision will result in many Americans taking American boats for passage to Europe where, because of the adverse ruling, they chose to take shine flying foreign flags."

The ruling was also greeted with favor by Palmer Canfield, federal prohibition director for New York, and by William Hayward, United States attorney, to whom is given the task of prosecuting many violators of the liquor law.

Permanent Restrictions.
"This will make permanent the restrictions in effect since the decision of Judge Learned Hand," said Mr. Canfield. "For six months no vessels, either foreign or American have been able to bring liquor into American ports for beverage purposes. The foreign ships have been able to bring in liquor as ships stores for the crews, but now, as I understand it, they will not be able to do that."
A 99 per cent victory for the government was the way Attorney Hayward described the ruling. He said the question as to whether American ships could carry liquor outside the three-mile limit, was after all, only an academic legal question so far as prohibition enforcement was concerned. The big question, he said, was whether either foreign or American vessels could bring drinkables into the harbors of the United States under the guise of their being stores or medicine. The trouble with this practice, he said, was the fact that too much of the "medicine" found its way ashore.
There was little indication as to what action either the American or foreign owners would take in making practical application of the ruling.

There was considered a plan for ships to stop at some nearby foreign port, such as Halifax or Bermuda, on their way out, take on enough liquor to last the round trip and see that it was all disposed of before the vessels docked again at a United States port.

GUERNSEY SALE
IN JACKSON STIRS
JERSEY RIVALRY

Jackson, Ga., April 30.—The sale of two cars of Guernsey cattle within the last year has stirred Jersey breeders to activities looking to the shipment here of a car of pure-bred Jersey cattle from one of the leading Jersey centers. Much good-natured rivalry exists between the Jersey and Guernsey breeders.

Methodist College of Bishops
Meets Today With Negro Bishops.

Nashville, Tenn., April 30.—For the first time in history the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will meet with the bishops of the colored Methodist church tomorrow morning, to discuss means of co-operating in regard to negro education, particularly as it affects Pauley college, an institution for the higher training of negroes in Augusta, Ga. The college is owned and controlled by the M. E. church, south.

At today's session of the college of bishops Dr. L. E. Todd, of St. Louis, secretary of the board of finance of the church, appeared before the college in the interest of the superannuated endowment fund of $10,000,000 which that board is proposing to raise as an old age and retirement fund for southern Methodist ministers. The college of bishops not only passed approval upon the plans for raising this sum, but approved the appointment of a special day at each annual conference session for the presentation of the plan.

January 27 as "good literature day" for Southern Methodists was approved by the bishops as a time for promoting the circulation of all the periodicals of the church.
Dr. W. A. Shelton, of Atlanta, was elected fraternal messenger from the southern church to the northern branch at the general conference of the latter in May, 1924.

Jefferson County Ju

Birmingham, Ala., April 30.—Three men were killed, and a fourth injured at Helena, Ala., this afternoon when a negro ran amok, fatally shot Allen Abernathy, nephew of Judge H. B. Abernathy, of Jefferson county court of a demagogue.
The dead are:
Allen Abernathy, 22 years old, Greyhound, Birmingham.
Charles Phillips, 22 years old, coal miner, Roebuck, Ala.
John Morgan King, negro, 40 years old, coal miner, Helena, Ala.
The injured:
J. W. Roy, farmer and former deputy sheriff, Helena, Ala.
Collier S. Roy, Helena, Ala.
Abernathy was shot about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and died just before reaching a hospital in Birmingham. General shooting and dynamiting started immediately following the initial shooting, but reports at 9 o'clock tonight indicated that the situation was well in hand, and everything had quieted down.

King, following an argument over his pay check, is said to have returned to the office of the coal company in which Abernathy worked and to have shot him. He then fled to his home and barricaded himself under the porch with several guns and a large quantity of ammunition.
Officers and a number of citizens stormed the house, and Phillips was killed in the fight which ensued.

GERMAN LEADERS TO BID FOR PEACE

France will call a conference of the allies to discuss the German offer as soon as it is made.
The British, American and Italian ambassadors conferred with Chancellor Cuno Monday concerning the forthcoming offer.

Rhenish Republic.
Berlin, April 30.—The French authorities in the Rhineland intend to have the oft-suggested Rhenish republic proclaimed in the course of the next 12 hours, according to advice to the German government from professedly reliable sources.
Such action on the part of the French would bring to a culmination the agitation in process of growth since the end of the war, and allied occupation of the Rhine bridge-heads, to render the Rhineland autonomous. The agitation has been in full swing since the French and Belgians marched into the Ruhr area as penalty for German defaults on reparations payments.

STO CONFER BUSINESS MEN

dy of Practical Methods
Will Be Made for Use in Schools.

Important conference of business and high school teachers to teach business and social subjects in Georgia and adjacent states, has been called for Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12, at the Hotel Cecil, New York.

The conference is called by the bureau of education of the department of commerce.

The conference is in cooperation with the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, the state department of education and the local board of education and the local chamber of commerce.

General Business. Organization and conduct of American business, production, marketing and office management will be the principal topics of discussion.

The conference is the sixth of a series of regional conferences of business men and teachers of business subjects in the high schools. The first conference was held in Philadelphia last November. Since that time similar meetings have been held in Boston, New York, Columbia, Ohio, and New Orleans.

Arrangements for this conference are now being made by the bureau of education's specialists in commercial education. Their purpose is unique in the history of the United States, namely, to correlate standardized business experience and the teaching of high school business subjects, including social studies.

W. A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta's public schools, is chairman of the local committee. The conference will be held in three sessions.

Woodford to Speak. Among the speakers at the first session, which begins at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, May 11, will be C. W. Woodford, president of the Retail Credit company, and Ivan E. Allen, president of the Allen-McCormack company.

At the Friday evening session, over which Prof. W. A. Sutton will preside, speakers will be B. S. Harris, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and Eugene S. Gregg, chief of the division of transportation and communication.

J. K. Orr, president of the J. K. Orr company, will preside over the final session at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning. Robert Gregg, president of the Atlantic Steel company, and J. B. Conwell, president of the Georgia Cotton Growers Co-operation association, will be the principal speakers.

ESCAPED GEORGIA
CONVICT CAPTURED

C. W. Anderson, who escaped several months ago from the Campbell county prison camp where he was serving a term of from two to five years for larceny of an automobile, is being held in Laredo, Texas, to await the arrival of officers from Georgia, according to information received at the office of Governor Hardwick.

A requisition is to be issued for Anderson at once, it is stated. He escaped from the camp 11 days after he had been sent there, prison commission officials state.

Eager to Prove Statton Fought For Confederacy

Seek Documentary Evidence
That Alms House Inmate
Was in Ga. Artillery.

Assistance of confederate veterans in furnishing documentary proof that Louis E. Statton, 70-year-old inmate of an alms house at Carthage, Missouri, was a member of the confederate army, in order that he may be admitted to the soldiers' home at Higginsville, Missouri, is asked in a communication received by The Constitution Monday from A. L. McCawley, a member of the Missouri state senate.

According to Senator McCawley, the aged inmate claims to have been a member of the Twentieth Georgia artillery, commanded by Colonel Paxton. After being shot through the chest by a mine ball he was taken to a Georgia hospital.

Editor Constitution: In the alms house, here in this county, there is an old gentleman by the name of Louis E. Statton, now past 70 years of age, who says that he was a confederate soldier, a member of the 20th Georgia artillery, commanded by Colonel Paxton.

This soldier was in the Battle of Gettysburg, and taken to Georgia Hospital No. 2, Richmond, Va. He remained in the hospital until the close of the war and became a citizen of this county something more than 15 years ago. He was shot through the chest with a "mine" ball.

I will thank you, therefore, to give the widest publicity to this matter in Georgia with the request that any ex-confederate who may have information that may lead to the military record of this soldier, address Hon. R. C. Fried, Joplin, Mo.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY IN RARE CIRCUMSTANCE

George Gordon Wanted in Pennsylvania for Lowering Figures on Check.

Hearing of an extradition case before Governor Hardwick on Monday developed the unusual feature that the accused man, George Gordon, alias Grover Seelig, is accused of forgery and of having reduced the amount called for on the check in question. It is very rare for an alleged forger to be charged with any other change in amount save an increase.

Gordon was wanted in Pennsylvania, and was arrested on that state's indictment immediately upon his release from the federal penitentiary several days ago, upon the completion of his sentence there.

The indictment from Pennsylvania charges that he reduced the amount of the check from $300.72 to $330.72, changed the date, the serial number and the name of the payee.

He is resisting extradition and is represented by W. Paul Carpenter, Walter LeCraw, assistant to Solicitor General John A. Boykin, appeared for the state at the hearing. Decision was reserved.

Both Georgia Senators Working for Appropriation, Mayor Sims Learns

That Atlanta will obtain an appropriation for the erection of a new postoffice building when congress convenes next December is regarded as almost certain, according to information reaching Mayor Walter A. Sims, from apparently authentic sources, Monday.

GOVERNOR TO AID THOSE DEPENDENT UPON CONVICTS

In order that the innocent wives and children of state convicts might not suffer for the crimes of those upon whom they are dependent, more than can be helped, Governor Hardwick stated Monday he will incorporate in his message to the legislature a recommendation that plans be worked out whereby part of a convict's earnings for the state be set aside in a fund for the support of his family.

While, he stated, he realized that it would take some time to work out a satisfactory method of achieving this result, the governor added that he was convinced that it was high time the state was perfecting some humane method to relieve a large part of the suffering of these helpless people. He said many cases had been brought to his attention where the wife and children of a convict were practically starving because of the enforced withdrawal of their sole means of support.

Beauty of Wreaths Presented Feature Of Memorial Day

One of the most beautiful incidents of the Memorial day exercises in Atlanta this year was the presentation of three large wreaths, which were received by Mrs. William A. Wright, president of the Atlanta Ladies' Memorial association.

These lovely tributes to the revered dead were sent, one from the Auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic, another from the United Confederate veterans, in honor of the World War veterans, and the third from the Auxiliary of the American Legion, Post No. 1, Atlanta.

The Ladies' Memorial association is anxious to express deepest appreciation to Atty & Lowndes, Hunter, Blanchard & Gertrell, Barclay & Brandon, Harry G. Poole, and Greenberg & Bond, for their assistance in making the day such a marked success.

This new and exclusive Franklin design has the comfort of a closed car, the ability of an open car, and a convenience and practical capacity for hard service all its own.

Yet it costs only a little more than an open car to buy, and no more to run.

High quality shows in every line and detail. The 4-door aluminum body is a fine piece of work—long and low—a full 5-passenger car.

Plate-glass panels that are the best ever invented for quick control of ventilation and enclosure.

Inlaid fittings that cannot tarnish. Finest leather upholstery. Nothing to show dirt, nothing to rattle, no extra weight to impede performance.

And the powerful new six motor added to all the other Franklin advantages, including pressure cooling. For people who use a car hard and often, the Franklin Demi-Sedan is in a class by itself.

AGIA MINISTER ENDS OWN LIFE

Death of Wife and Fear of Insanity Are Blamed for Suicide of Rev. J. E.
Seals.

Waynesboro, Ga., April 30.—(Special.)—Rev. John E. Seals, pastor of the First Methodist church, of Waynesboro, killed himself at the parsonage this morning at 10:30 o'clock by shooting himself through the head with a .32 calibre pistol.

His wife died early last fall and since that time he has not been himself, but continued his work as pastor of his church. He had held some of the most important charges in the South Georgia conference, coming to Waynesboro from a four-year pastorate at the First church, of Thomasville, Ga. His father was a Methodist preacher.

While in Thomasville he had a nervous break down that stopped his work for a few months but he seemed to recover rapidly and went back into his work with vigor. He was regarded by all who ever heard him preach as a very fine expositor of the Bible. He helped in the evangelistic campaigns in Savannah last year with great success.

He preached at his own church here Sunday morning preparatory to the opening of revival services. The death of his wife and the fear of another nervous break down, according to his very close friends in Waynesboro, account for his suicide.

He was 46 years of age, a graduate of Emory college. He leaves four children. His body will be taken to Macon for burial.

He left a note saying: "It was either the asylum, or death."

Just at the hour Mr. Seals took his life, he was scheduled to begin morning services at the church, where he was conducting protracted services.

Death was instantaneous. His note asked that his sister, who lives in Macon, be notified, together with some instructions regarding his children.

THOUSANDS IN CASH

A recently published estimate by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World shows that at the top of the list, far ahead of all other classes of advertising stands newspaper advertising.

The reason for this is easily understood. Newspaper advertising reaches the greatest number of prospects, and at as near the time of purchase as it is possible to plan for any publication advertising to be delivered.

Fitting, therefore, that the first National Slogan and Trade-Mark Campaign should be inaugurated by The Constitution, acting in conjunction with the most representative papers in other sections of the country.

Appropriately, too, the underlying purpose of this campaign is to test the depth of impression on the buyers' minds of nationally advertised trade-marks and slogans. The $21,000 in prizes are not a reward for your diligence in reading such advertising, and our readers will find it profitable for them to enter. Details of the ten simple rules to be observed will be found in The Constitution of last Sunday and Monday.

WORK ON HISTORIC
AUGUSTA STREET IS PROGRESSING

Augusta, Ga., April 30.—The completion of Green street, one of the historic and beautiful avenues of this city, is now in sight. The work has been progressing for months and the result promises to be one of the most beautiful streets in the south. The total cost of the improvements amounted to nearly $250,000.

There is on Green street about four miles of the most modern paving and a new lighting system with artistic posts has been installed. The avenue is shaded by beautiful palisades of trees along both the greens and the driveways.

Fair Directors Meet.

Louis, Ga., April 30.—A meeting of the directors of the Toombs County Fair association was held last week. W. Estroff being elected secretary and treasurer. October 9 to 13 was set as the date of holding the fair. A much larger fair is being planned this year and the premium list prepared represents an increase over last year.

DAMAGES SOUGHT FOR DEATH OF SON IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Rome, Ga., April 30.—Twenty-five thousand dollars damages for the death of her son, John Autrey, are being sought from the city and Southern railway by Mrs. Mollie Autrey. The suit filed in superior court alleges that the boy's death occurred when a car in which he was riding overturned into a deep ditch on the edge of a street which is located on the Southern railroad's right-of-way.

RAILROAD SHIPMENTS HEAVIEST IN HISTORY

American Railway Association's Statistics Show Enormous Growth During Past Year.

Despite the obstacles placed in the way of an efficient transportation service by the cumulative effect of the coal miners' strike and the shopmen's strike in 1922, the railroads of the United States, between July 1, 1922, and March 17, 1923—a period of 37 weeks—handled the greatest volume of traffic ever transported in the history of the country during any corresponding period, according to a pamphlet just issued by the American Railway association.

A copy of the pamphlet, which contains a nation-wide program of the railroads to provide adequate transportation service in 1923, was furnished The Constitution Monday by J. T. Hartbrough, division freight agent of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company. The pamphlet was authorized at a membership meeting of the American Railway association and was subsequently approved at a meeting of the Association of Railway executives in New York city on April 5, 1923, it was stated.

Anticipate Growth.

"Anticipating a still larger development in agriculture and other departments of industry with the resulting increase in tonnage, and for the purpose of meeting the demands of commerce in an adequate and efficient manner, individual railroads, in the 14 months from January 1, 1922 to March 15, 1923, have purchased an aggregate of 255,616 new freight cars, of which 117,289 have been placed in service and on March 15, 1923, 106,326 were on contract for delivery during 1923," the bulletin reads.

"The railroads, in the same period, have also placed in service or purchased an aggregate of 4,219 locomotives, of which 2,106 have been placed in service, and on March 15 there were 2,113 on contract for delivery this year."

Roads Spend Money.

It is shown that the railroads have authorized expenditures for equipment and other facilities of approximately $1,100,000,000 for the year 1923, divided as follows: for cars, $515,000,000; for locomotives, $100,000,000; for track and other facilities, $485,000,000. In realization of the necessity for improvement and expansion the carriers actually expended in the year 1922 a total of $140,000,000, according to the statement.

Three New and Forward Steps in Rubber Manufacture announced by United States Rubber Company

Pioneering along lines entirely new in the rubber industry—and after five years of scientific development both in America and on the Company's plantations in the Far East—the United States Rubber Company now presents three new major and basic contributions to the art of rubber manufacture:—

1-The new Sprayed Rubber

For use in the manufacture of all rubber products

2-The new Web Cord

Of specific application to the art of cord tire making

3-The new Flat Band Process of building a Cord Tire

Ensuring for the first time a uniform tire, equalized through and through in resiliency and resistance to puncture and wear

AT this time, the far-reaching scope and benefit of these three basic discoveries are perhaps most appreciated by the rubber technician.

It is frankly conceded by the entire rubber industry that they date a chapter in rubber manufacture so new as to be almost revolutionary.

Sprayed Rubber is the result of a new method of obtaining crude rubber from latex, the milky liquid which flows from a rubber tree when it is tapped.

Instead of coagulating rubber out of the latex with smoke or chemicals—the only methods known heretofore—the latex is sprayed as a snow-white mist into superheated air. The water is driven out of it—nothing else. The pure rubber solids which remain contain every natural property of rubber, including many valuable properties formerly destroyed or impaired by the old methods of treating latex.

Sprayed Rubber is the first truly pure rubber. It is uniform in quality—an impossibility with the former processes. It is dry and remains so. It vulcanizes to perfection. Sprayed Rubber ensures finer quality and longer service in manufactured rubber goods of every type and description.

It is believed that this development means more to the rubber industry than anything that has been accomplished since the discovery of vulcanization in 1839.

The new Web Cord is the result of a basic discovery—that rubber latex has a strong natural affinity for cotton cord. The new Web Cord produces the first true rubber-webbed cord tire.

It is the most substantial step in friction elimination since the old square woven fabric gave way to cord construction.

Each cord in the fabric is impregnated through and through, and surrounded, with natural rubber direct from the pure rubber latex. All cross tie-threads are done away with. No chemical solutions of rubber are used.

It is believed that Web Cord makes the most homogeneous cord tire yet manufactured, and, as a result, the strongest, most elastic, and longest wearing.

The Flat-Band Process of building a cord tire ensures scientific precision for the first time.

Each cord of the 19,000 individual cords in a 35 x 5 Royal Cord for instance, is now uniform in length, uniform in angle, uniform in tension. This means a balanced tire—in which every part does its proportionate share of the work. There are no weak spots. Wear is uniform and gradual—with a high resistance to puncture.

In short—these three basic discoveries present what amounts to a new and finer art in rubber manufacture. They are the exclusive property of the United States Rubber Company—fully protected by patents in the United States and foreign countries.

EMERSON HOUGH, AUTHOR, IS DEAD

"Fifty-four Forty or Right" and "The Mississippi Bubble" Were His Most Popular Books.

Chicago, April 30.—Emerson Hough, author, died in a hospital in Evanston today.

Mr. Hough was 66 years old and was taken to the hospital last Thursday suffering from an intestinal obstruction. An operation was performed on Saturday. Heart and respiratory complications caused death.

Mr. Hough, who was a devotee of outdoor life, had written many western stories. His most recent book, "The Covered Wagon," was reproduced in motion pictures.

In the winter of 1895, donning skis, he traveled over Yellowstone national park and his activity after this trip was credited with instigating the act of congress protecting buffalo herds.

Mr. Hough explored many of the wildest and most out-of-the-way corners of the country, and during his earlier years gathered much of the material for his later books of travel, adventure and romance. Many of his novels were of the historical-romance type, involving the building of the west with its pioneer difficulties.

He was born in Newton, Iowa, June 28, 1857. He was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1880. Soon afterward he began his travels in response to his love for the outdoor life and the beauties of nature.

In 1897 he married Charlotte A. Cheesbro, of Chicago, who survives him.

Among his best-known books are "Fifty-Four Forty or Right," and "The Mississippi Bubble."

He also wrote many short stories and magazine articles. He was president of the Society of Midland Authors in 1917 and 1918.

WILL RESUME PROBE OF HOUSE OF DAVID

More Than 50 Prospective Witnesses Will Be Heard This Week.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 30.—Michigan's grand jury investigation of alleged immorality at "King" Benjamin Purnell's House of David colony will be resumed tomorrow with more than 50 prospective witnesses to be heard.

Judge Harry Dingeman, of Detroit, who is sitting as an on-man grand jury, and Attorney-General Andrew Lauberty are expected to decide tomorrow whether to order the opening of a grave in the House of David colony grounds to investigate reports that the occupant had met death by violence.

A former sexton at the cemetery claims that the body, which was listed on the death certificate when it was buried two years ago as that of a woman 65 years old, was in reality a girl about 15, who bore fingerprints on her throat.

The sexton has told officials that the flimsy rough box containing the body first opened and that he saw the body, which was unclothed and wrapped in old newspapers.

State officials today checked up the list of all the dead of the colony since Purnell came here in 1904. There are 43 names on the list and the inquiry was directed particularly to circumstances surrounding the deaths of a half-dozen people, who, the undertaker's records show, died "of causes unknown."

Dr. Estes, a physician of the cult, signed the death certificates.

Purnell teaches his followers they will gain immortality by following his teachings and can only die if they lose faith. Because of his peculiar teachings, the members of the colony refuse to have anything to do with members who die.

Man Not Identified.

Marysville, Ohio, April 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Although Michigan authorities have not arrived here to identify a man arrested last night and suspected of being "King" Benjamin Purnell, missing leader of the House of David, Sheriff Collier, of Union county, continues to hold him for further investigation.

The man steadfastly refuses to give any name and denies that he is Purnell. An automobile license, however, found on the truck in which he lived and worked as a gunsmith since his arrival two months ago, was issued to Joseph Kawalski, of Frankfort, Ohio, according to the records.

The truck also bore a Kentucky license and in the car was found a certificate showing that it had been issued also to Joseph Kawalski, who at that time, gave his home as Catlettsburg, Ky.

Two Men Suffering From Mysterious Illnesses at Grady

Two men are in Grady hospital in a serious condition as the result of a sudden and violent attack of some mysterious illness Monday, the exact nature of which doctors had been unable to accurately diagnose at a late hour Monday night.

One was Charles Grisswell, employed at pumping station No. 1, who was stricken unconscious while at work. Shortly after his arrival at the hospital doctors were successful in reviving him, but they are puzzled as to the cause of his illness.

The other victim's identity is unknown. He was found unconscious at Gilmer and Moore streets Monday, and remained in this condition throughout Monday night.

Both men were said by doctors Monday night to be in a serious condition. Police and detectives are co-operating with hospital authorities in an effort to learn the identity of the aged man. No letters or papers could be found on his person.

10,000 COAL MINERS WILL RETURN TO WORK

35 Men Who Caused Trouble Will Join the Union.

Scranton, Pa., April 30.—The strike of 10,000 anthracite mine workers at the Pennsylvania Coal company mines was called off today when mine foremen at a meeting with the general grievance committee agreed to see that the thirty-five men who refused to join the union at the Butler mine which caused the suspension, get into good standing with the organization. Work will be resumed tomorrow.

READY TO START WORK ON BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL

Excavation to Start Wednesday Morning, Contractor Announces.

Excavation of the site upon which will be erected the senior high school for boys, Atlanta's new half-million dollar school project, to be erected on North Boulevard, near Piedmont park, will begin Wednesday morning, it was announced Monday by H. W. Beers, general manager of the Southern Ferro Concrete company, contractors in charge of the work.

Work on improvised tool houses, superintendent's office and other temporary buildings necessary for erection of the plant, was started Monday and will be completed this week, according to Mr. Beers.

"We will begin grading the grounds for the high school Wednesday morning," declared Mr. Beers. "This work will require several weeks, but will be rushed with a full force of men and equipment. Everything is in readiness to hasten the work."

Quiet 'May Day' Planned by Heads Of Two Countries

Germany and Italy Take Steps to Prevent Any Disturbances.

Paris, April 30.—Germany and Italy have clamped down the lid on May day celebrations while the other European governments are making no effort to prevent the celebration of "labor day" of the old world.

Chancellor Cuno, desirous of preventing anything which may embarrass the German government on the eve of its reparations offer, issued an order Monday forbidding socialists to hold demonstrations in the Ruhr and Munich. Celebrations, however, will be permitted in Berlin.

In taking action to prevent demonstrations in the Ruhr, Cuno apparently feared that clashes between German civilians and French soldiers would be the probable outcome. Any outward event would be very harmful to the interests of the German government now that peace in the Ruhr civil war is a possibility.

The order prohibiting the socialists of Munich from holding demonstrations was issued to prevent any possible trouble between the radicals and the fascists, led by Adolf Hitler. The Hitlerites have openly threatened to use arms if necessary to prevent the socialists holding their demonstrations.

Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, called out his fascist militia on the eve of May day to prevent any possible disorders. In an order issued by the police of all Italian industrial centers, radicals are prohibited from holding demonstrations. Furthermore, any Italian workers who do not report for work on May day are to be discharged through an arrangement made between members of the fascist government and the industrialists.

The government of France plans to have the gendarmes reserves on hand to cope with any disorders but it is anticipated that the day will be spent quietly. It is not anticipated that there will be any disorders in England.

$2,000,000 YEARLY WANTED FOR FORESTS

Money Necessary to Compete With Lumber Companies, Says Governor Cox.

Boston, April 30.—A delegation of forestry experts, newspaper publishers, lumber and paper manufacturers and others will go to Washington tomorrow and see President Harding in support of a proposal to resume the $2,000,000 annual federal appropriation in effect before the war for purchase of forest lands. This year's appropriation is $450,000.

Governor Cox, in a letter to President Harding, says that the national forest commission in recent years has been unable to acquire land in competition with lumber companies because of the reduced appropriations.

"As the lumber operations in all parts of the White Mountains are excessive, including the high slopes, except on those tracts already acquired by the government," Governor Cox wrote, "I most earnestly urge in the interest of the water powers of Massachusetts the approval, in so far as the circumstances warrant, of such increases in the appropriation this year as may permit the completion of the program at the earliest practical moment."

TWO ARE ARRESTED AFTER AUTO CRASH

Jim Cope, of 145 Spring street, was injured and C. J. Hendrick and Joe Crumley were arrested under charges of reckless driving, as the result of a collision with the heavy motor truck Hendrick was driving, and the touring car of Crumley, Monday morning.

The accident occurred in front of Crumley's home, and was caused, police were told, by the truck crashing into the touring car which Hendrick had turned to enter the driveway of his home. The truck was completely overturned.

Cope was given treatment at the Grady hospital and left for his home. He was not seriously hurt. He was riding on the truck with Hendrick, which belonged to the Thomas Cusack Sign company.

CALL OFF TALK BY DR. VOORHEES AT AGNES SCOTT

Dr. Oscar M. Voorhees of New York city, secretary of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity, a national honor society among the various educational institutions of the country, was scheduled to address the Honor society at Agnes Scott college here tonight, but this address was called off on account of the death this morning of Dr. J. D. M. Armistead, head of the department of English at the college.

Instead of the scheduled address, Dr. Voorhees led the evening prayer service, at which time he explained the meaning of Phi Beta Kappa.

The annual May day exercises, originally scheduled for May 5, probably will be postponed for one week on account of Dr. Armistead's death, according to Dr. J. H. McCain, acting president of Agnes Scott since the recent death of Dr. F. H. Gaines.

The next event before the final examinations, May 15, is a recital by the musical department to be given May 10.

The annual meeting of the board of trustees will be held May 25, at which time a successor to President F. H. Gaines, who died recently, will be named, it is stated.

The first of the commencement exercises is scheduled to take place May 26 when the annual play will be given. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be presented this year, according to announcements.

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Dr. J. M. Vauder Meulen, president of the Louisville Theological seminary, May 27, and the alumnae exercises will be held on the afternoon of May 28, followed in the evening by the annual Glee club recital.

Commencement exercises will be held May 29, with Dr. Lyons as the principal speaker.

ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved—Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. New Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines, thus enters upon a wider field of popularity, purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headaches and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(adv.)

ATLANTA EXTENDS HEARTY WELCOME TO SOUTHERN BAKERS

First Session of Bakers Convention Slated for Ansley Hotel Roof Today

Mayor Walter Sims to Deliver Address of Welcome — Gordon Smith Will Respond.

Today will mark the opening of the ninth annual convention of the Southern Bakers' association, which is expected to be the largest convention of its kind ever held in the south. The committee on entertainment, headed by John P. Wagner, general manager of the Stone Baking company, announced Monday that extensive preparations had been made. Convention headquarters will be located at the Ansley hotel.

Opens Tonight.

The first session of the convention will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning on the Ansley roof. After Dr. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, delivers the invocation, Mayor Walter Sims will make an address of welcome, to which the president of the association, Gordon Smith, will respond. Officers will then report on the work during the past year, followed by an address by Governor John M. Statham. Dr. H. E. Bernard, general manager of the American Association of the Baking Industry, will deliver a message to the delegates from Secretaries Hoover, Wallace and Davis, with whom he recently conferred on the "Eat More Wheat" campaign. The plans for the campaign will be submitted to the southern bakers for their approval or rejection.

Little Sister There.

Little Evelyn Turner, the adopted sister of the association, will be among those at the convention who are expected to create a great deal of interest.

At the Wednesday session, John W. Burns, of Louisville, Ky., president of the association, will preside. A committee composed of J. L. McLondon, Leon Walker, W. H. Brittain, and members of the firms of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company and J. M. High company, and Fred H. Houser, will welcome the delegates to the city.

Twelfth Ward Engine House To Open Today

Citizens of the Twelfth ward, formerly the town of Kirkwood, will celebrate the opening Tuesday of their new fire engine house, which will be formally inaugurated as Fire Station No. 15 of the Atlanta fire department, according to announcement Monday by Fire Chief W. B. Cody.

The new station was formerly the town hall of Kirkwood. It has been completely renovated and will house a new fire apparatus which will be handled by eight men.

Chicago, and Brooks Morgan, of Atlanta, will be among the speakers. At that session, a code of ethics will be adopted.

Several Speakers.

Charles R. Roberts, of Knoxville, Tenn.; R. W. Harvey, of the Harvey Advertising agency of Atlanta; N. E. Drake, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and H. E. Turley will address the day sessions on Thursday.

A committee composed of J. L. McLondon, Leon Walker, W. H. Brittain, and members of the firms of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company and J. M. High company, and Fred H. Houser, will welcome the delegates to the city.

Burglars Reported To Police Monday; No Losses Sustained

Detectives Monday were investigating the burglary of the Bonita theater, at Five Points, the dental offices of Dr. H. Jensen, 781-2 Whitehall street, and the attempt to enter the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose company's store some time during Sunday night or early Monday morning.

All three of the burglaries are believed to have been attempted by the same persons, and detectives, under the direction of Captain T. O. Sturdivant, are making an effort to obtain some clue upon which to work in determining the identity of the burglars.

Fortunately, the only loss sustained was the damage done to the locks on the safe doors at the theater and Dr. Jensen's office. The thieves did not get inside of the Chamberlin-Johnson store, being frightened off shortly after making a hole in the roof.

CYCLONE DAMAGES ORCHARDS IN GORDON

Calhoun, Ga., April 30.—(Special.) Much damage was done to orchards (timber) in the northern part of Gordon county by a cyclone Saturday evening. No lives were lost, although the family of Dewey Chambliss were in their home when part of it was blown away. A severe electrical storm, with hard winds and rain, swept the entire county.

CHATHAM COUNTY COMES TO RESCUE IN ROAD PROJECT

Because Bryan county could not match the federal funds provided for the construction of a stretch of gravel road through that county, Chatham county has come to the rescue and agreed to bear the expense.

The road in question is part of the highway from Statesboro to Savannah and it was not desired that this stretch of unfinished road should break the smooth miles of the connecting artery between the two points. Neither Bolloch nor Chatham wanted to leave this gap, and Chatham, as the richer county, volunteered to bear the expense. According to Chairman John Holder, of the state highway department, the cost of the work will be about $84,000.

OLD SOL SHINES TODAY Mild Temperature for Atlanta, Is Prediction.

A sunny day with a mildly warm temperature will greet Atlantans, but there will be but little danger of sunstroke, according to C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

Fair weather will rule during the first part of the week, and it is probable that showers will fall towards the last of the week, according to the report.

Fine clear weather prevailed all through the cotton belt Monday, and the weather will rapidly become warmer, the report adds.

Dr. M. F. Guyer, Noted Biologist, Will Make Two Addresses Here

Dr. Michael Frederic Guyer, professor of biology at the University of Wisconsin, will be the chief speaker at the meeting of the Georgia Biological association at Emory university Saturday.

Dr. Guyer will also address the student body Friday. As the author of many books of present day science, Dr. Guyer is regarded as one of America's leading authorities on biological topics. The Georgia Biological association numbers among its members many of the leading educators of Georgia and a large number of them are expected to attend the sessions.

ZERFOSS RESIGNS AS "Y" SECRETARY

The resignation of Karl P. Zerfoss, associate secretary of the college branch of Y. M. C. A. at Georgia Tech, was accepted Monday by "Y" officials after an effort had been made to retain him. He will be placed in charge of the Y. M. C. A. at Washington and Lee university.

Let Contract for Unit Of Additions to Plant Of White Provision Co.

Contract for the erection of the second unit of three large additions, to that White Provision company's plant on Howell Mill road, has been let to the Griffin Construction company and actual work will begin at once, it was announced Monday by W. H. White, Jr., president.

Mr. White stated that the contract was formally approved by the directors of the White Provision company last week at their regular meeting, at which the quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, amounting to $300,000, on capital stock of $1,000,000, was declared. Checks were being mailed to stockholders Monday, he said.

The second unit of the plant enlargements will cost approximately $720,000. Mr. White stated, and will include the new abattoir, the sausage factory and the smoked meat building extension.

The first unit, which was begun several months ago, is practically completed. The initial unit includes the new engine and boiler rooms and the machinery, the dry-cure building and the shipping building.

Work on the third unit probably will be begun in July, according to Mr. White. It will consist of cold storage rooms.

SUMMER IN CAMP OFFERED BY U. D. C. FOR BEST ESSAY

"A summer in camp" is the prize to be offered by the Atlanta chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy for the best essay on "The Ideal Southern Woman," is was announced Monday. The contestants are not required to be descendants of Confederate veterans, the only requirement being that entrants must be girls and residents of Georgia.

Those who desire more information than that following can secure it by communication with Miss Rose M. Moran, chairman of scholarships of the U. D. C., 126 East Eleventh street. The winner of the contest will be given free tuition at the Log Cabin camp for girls, located near Waynesville, N. C., in the "land of the sky."

The rules for the contest follow:

1. The contestant must be at least 12 years of age.
2. Entries are to be sent to 9 o'clock Saturday morning, May 19, at the Atlanta U. D. C. chapter house, 456 Juniper street, where the essays will be written.
3. The essays should be between 500 and 600 words in length. Three hours will be allowed for writing.
4. The contestants are to pay 25 cents each, entry fee, to cover expenses of stationery and incidentals.
5. They must bring pencils, pen, ink, but no paper and no notes. Plenty of paper will be provided for them.
6. Each contestant will be required to choose a non-dramatic or "pen name," which is to be written on each sheet of the essay and on the outside of the envelope. The real name is to be put in a sealed envelope. This envelope will be fastened to the essay when it is handed in. References should be included in this envelope.
7. The papers will be graded by a group of teachers and the decision announced June 1.
8. No manuscripts will be returned.

DANGER SIGNALS OF INDIGESTION

The Disease That Strikes
Like Lightning.

Beware of indigestion—the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning, by physicians, is particularly applicable this season of the year when your system "lets down" your food and vigor with the first approach of warm weather.

What are the warning signs that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical books tell us: 1. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up against your heart and lungs. 2. A dull, lazy feeling, which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you are eating. 3. Restlessness, unrefreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 4. Sometimes, pain and fluttering around the heart, though this symptom may come later.

Don't take chances with indigestion. You are apt to lose. If you have had any of the symptoms mentioned above, get your digestive organs to work at once with Dan-Nax, the greatest prescription that was ever written for a digestive tonic. Dan-Nax immediately aids and assists every one of your digestive organs, including the stomach, liver and bowels. Dan-Nax makes your digestion "perfect and complete." You feel its helpful effect from the very first dose. Get a bottle of Dan-Nax today at any drug store. Dan-Nax is so much superior to any other remedy for indigestion that the manufacturers have instructed every druggist to refund the price if you do not get relief, so it costs you nothing to try it. You will be delighted with results. Delay might be dangerous, get Dan-Nax today—(adv.)

RADIO DEPARTMENTBRILLIANT STARS AT WGM TONIGHT

Harry Pomar, Noted Atlanta Composer-Violinist, in Charge of Arrangements at Late Hour.

Listeners to The Atlanta Constitution's 9:30 to 10:30 broadcast tonight will hear a trio of the south's most brilliant artists in a musical program which promises to be one of the outstanding successes in the history of Station WGM. Harry Pomar, widely known Atlanta composer, baritone and violinist, is in charge of program arrangements and will be ably assisted by Miss Sara Patton, lyric soprano, and Miss Glennia Hancock, pianist.

Miss Patton is a prominent church soloist and is frequently heard in Howard theater productions. She has a voice of unusual sweetness and beauty and its flute-like purity has been highly praised by many critics. Theatergoers heard Miss Patton at the Howard theater only last month and many will tune in Station WGM tonight to enjoy her radio debut. She is a charming and attractive young artist who has the happy faculty of singing into her numbers much of her own charm and pleasing personality.

Miss Hancock is a popular figure in Atlanta musical circles and is a finished pianist. She has accompanied many of the great artists who have visited Atlanta and was heard recently by a big Rome audience as accompanist for Fred Guinister in a recital before the Music club of that city. She will give the accompaniments tonight and will also be heard in a number of beautiful piano solos.

Harry Pomar's name is a byword with thousands of music lovers who have heard him via the microphone of this station. He has a rich baritone voice and sings with an ease and simplicity that is most enjoyable. Mr. Pomar is best known, however, as a composer and a violinist, having written music for many vocal and instrumental numbers and is the author of a number of widely known songs. He ranks as one of the south's foremost violinists, playing with an expression and technique vouchsafed to by artists of the nation.

In all, the program will be one of unusual interest and a broadcast which will please the most critical listeners.

Many Thanks.

Government witnesses were on the stand testifying along the same lines as preceding witnesses. Witnesses Monday declared that Dr. Murphey prescribed other medicine for them besides narcotics.

MERCER GLEE CLUB PLAYS IN CEDARTOWN

Cedartown, Ga., April 30.—(Special.)—The Mercer glee club gave a very pleasing performance before a large and appreciative audience here tonight. The performance was under the auspices of the Kiwanis club of this city, to raise funds for school athletics. The boys sang in the various churches Sunday and that evening were entertained by the B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church. Today they were entertained at luncheon by the Kiwanis club, who moved the date up from Friday to have the club as their guests, and a reception was given them at the Cedartown club following the performance.

GIFTED SOPRANO
ENTERTAINS FANS

Mrs. Mary Cook Cowerd, Dramatic Soprano of Birmingham, Heard at Early Hour From WGM.

Mrs. Mary Cook Cowerd, charming and gifted dramatic soprano and a widely known teacher of voice, of Birmingham, Ala., thrilled listeners to Station WGM's 6 to 7 o'clock program last night. The accompaniments for the vocal numbers were most acceptably given by Miss Ella Bartholomew, well-known Atlanta music lover and pianist.

Mrs. Cowerd's voice is wonderfully pure in quality, amazingly flexible, and of rare evenness throughout its wide compass. She is a pupil of Roman, the celebrated New York teacher, under whom on Ponsella, Metropolitan Grand Opera soprano, studies. Mrs. Cowerd's numbers included "Dawn," "Open Secret," "Homecoming," "Del Regio," and "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise." The exquisite quality of her voice and her remarkable musicianship was displayed to exceptional advantage.

Listeners to last night's program will be interested to learn that Mrs. Cowerd will be heard in prologues at the Howard theater in this city at an early date.

Miss Bartholomew is quite well known in musical circles in Atlanta and is a finished artist. In addition to the accompaniments for Mrs. Cowerd, Miss Bartholomew gave "To Spring," by Grieg, as a solo. The intonation was perfect and the quality of tone superb and unusually individual.

The duo of well-known artists greatly pleased listeners to the early program as attested in the number of telephone calls from fans who expressed appreciation of the splendid broadcast.

Well, Well Fine.

LATE BROADCAST
VERY ENJOYABLE

A quintet of popular Atlanta artists took turns before the microphone of Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, during the 9:30 to 10:30 broadcast Monday night in a program of exceptional variety and interest to music lovers. Earle A. and Wendall J. Helton, of Helton Brothers, well-known Atlanta entertainers, headed the list of stars, and were ably supported by Mrs. Theresa L. Jones, cornetist; Miss Christine Florence, mezzo-soprano, and Ernest M. Brown, tenor.

The Helton brothers are very popular with fans of this station and appear regularly on broadcasts. They are musicians of talent and experience and where programs from the south's "old reliable" station are received the names of Earle A. and Wendall Helton are well known. Earle supplied the piano accompaniments for the Monday night program, Wendall appearing as a saxophonist. Mrs. Jones, in her debut to listeners of this station, was unusually enjoyable in a number of beautiful cornet solos. She is one of Atlanta's best known women cornetists and her contributions were well rendered and appreciated.

Miss Florence was heard in several song numbers and augmented her popularity with WGM's circle of fans. She has a mezzo-soprano voice of rare warmth and color, which was unusually enjoyable last night. Ernest Brown's refreshing tenor voice was thoroughly appreciated by fans. It was his initial appearance before a radio audience and it was a tremendous success. His voice is one of rare purity and sweetness and his numbers were real features.

Richmond, Va., April 30.—Delegates from practically every state and province in the United States and Canada are expected to be present tomorrow for the opening session of the tenth annual convention of the Association of Governmental Labor Officials.

Governor F. Lee Trinkle and Major George Ansie will deliver addresses of welcome at the morning session, which will be devoted chiefly to the formalities of the organization. A number of prominent speakers are scheduled for addresses at the afternoon and evening sessions. Senator Medill McCormick, of Illinois, will address the convention at a public meeting tomorrow night.

ACES CELEBRATE
RETURN TO WGM

The Constitution Orchestra Featured 6 to 7 O'Clock Broadcast From "Old Reliable."

Guess this week might be called "home-coming week" at Station WGM for the old-timers.
Warner's Seven Aces are back once more at this station.
They were heard last night on the early program for the first time in over a week. The studio has been "kind" to them without them for the past week, while they were playing at the Georgian Terrace for the entertainment of opera visitors.
Trouble is, they are not here for long at a time. Next week, the Aces are going to be heard at the Howard theater and the following week they are going to "fill the Noo Yawk" Thinkers' records for the General Phonograph company. The bunch at Station WGM will be singing "Sorter Miss You" during their absence and will be glad when they are back for a permanent stay.
Anyhow, the old timer was packed, and jammed with some of the best orchestration ever broadcast from the station for one full half hour last night, and the Aces were responsible for it all.

Cast the old peepers over this list of popular numbers, which were given out via the microphone of Station WGM last night: "Play The Funny Blues," a brand-new number with a special arrangement by Byron H. Warner, director-pianist of the Aces; "Wonderful One," a waltz number that has met with tremendous success wherever played; "Dearest," an other new number played in the "Truly Warner" style; "And Her Blues," "Plantation Home," and "Who Cares?" There was only one thing wrong, and that was—there were not enough numbers from the Aces. Listeners would not get tired of listening to the "jazz hounds."

The Aces will be on the air again at Station WGM tonight at the early hour and will present a number of late hits, played in their own inimitable style.

MEXICAN LABOR
LEADER TO SPEAK
IN ATLANTA MAY 9

J. W. Kelly, head of the Mexican Federation of Labor and the Railway Federation of Mexico, who recently spoke here on the labor situation in Mexico, will speak in Atlanta at an open meeting Wednesday, May 9, it was announced following a conference of local labor leaders Monday. Mr. Kelly is scheduled to speak in Birmingham Wednesday, May 2, and in New Orleans, May 5, after which he will return for the engagement here.

"I am making a tour of the United States in an effort to dispel the general idea that Mexico is still in the throes of revolution and banditry, because no such situation exists; in fact, never before in the country's existence has it been more peaceful and prosperous," Mr. Kelly said.

Their Children's Children

THE back trail of Atlanta's banking history leads to a little bank which opened its doors in the pioneer days of '61.

Hardly could those first depositors have imagined that out of that small frame building would result a huge banking edifice, that the few thousand dollars capital would grow to $7,000,000 (the largest invested banking capital in the South), that the Lowry Bank & Trust Company of Georgia would be serving their children and their children's children with the same spirit of helpfulness that made the little parent bank a building power when Atlanta was a village.

Yet the growth of this institution has not been spectacular, it is the result of three generations of confidence building—sixty-two years of steadily advancing financial construction from the village bank of '61 to the towering financial structure of the present, still serving each of our thousands of customers with undiminished heartiness, courtesy and appreciation.

vention, at the afternoon session. The convention will continue through today, and conventions to be held in the future by the three organizations will be known as the interscholastic publication convention, it was voted.

It was pointed out by S. M. Kelly, president, that while the organizations would continue to function as individual units, their interests are so closely linked together that they will continue to hold joint annual conventions, and to simplify matters, the name of interscholastic publication convention has been selected for all joint meetings.

Among those who will address the body today are Edward W. Hill, sales manager of the John and Oliver Engraving company, of Chicago; Morton Gilbons Neff, general manager of Dill and Collins, of Philadelphia; and O. S. Barrett, former advertising manager for the Studebaker corporation.

Mr. Kelly, of the senior class of Emory university, and president of the Southeastern College Managers' association, is presiding over the convention.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, delivered the address of welcome at the opening Monday. Response was made by R. H. Nathan, general manager of the Arts and Crafts guild.

An informal dinner-dance was given the visitors Monday evening at the Piedmont hotel. More than 100 delegates are attending the meeting. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected this afternoon at the closing session.

MAN SWALLOWS POISON BUT IS SOON RECOVERED

H. R. Charles, 30, of 47 Degress avenue, was taken to Grady hospital Monday night suffering from poison, believed to have been self-administered. He was found in a semi-conscious condition at 100 Ivy street.

He told physicians at the hospital that he thought he had taken poisoned corn liquor. Ambulance Driver Charles Cooper said that he told him he had taken bichloride of mercury. He was reported to be much improved early Tuesday morning.

EPISCOPAL WOMEN MEET HERE TODAY

Sunday School Conference Convenes at St. Luke's This Afternoon.

Annual meeting of the women's auxiliary of the Episcopal diocese of Atlanta convenes in business session at 10 o'clock this morning at St. Luke's church.

Among the questions that will come up for discussion is the Hoke Ramsaur Memorial fund. This project is one that the women of the diocese are fostering. The Rev. Hoke Ramsaur was a missionary to Liberia at a time of his death last year. He was a North Carolinian by birth and the women of the southeast, which includes his native state, have decided to raise funds enough in the next three years to build and equip a modern school, to be situated at Peta, in Liberia, as a memorial to him.

The auxiliary of the diocese has an educational fund which is used by the bishop for the education of young men for the ministry. The money pays their tuition and helps care for them while they are pursuing their studies at a university or seminary. Each year the diocesan branches of the auxiliary contribute, and the fund will be commented upon at the session today.

The church of the Federation of Churchwomen of Georgia will also be discussed at the convention.

Sunday School Workers Meet.

Conference of Sunday school workers which meets at St. Luke's church at 4 o'clock this afternoon will be addressed by George B. Himmelman, superintendent of St. Luke's school.

Two other speakers on the program are Mrs. J. C. Hoke and the Rev. O. J. Hart. The Rev. O. J. Hart is vice chairman of the department of religious education of the diocese and will speak on the subject of setting a standard of religious education in the local diocese. Rev. Hart is rector of Christ church, Macon.

At 5 o'clock tonight a meeting will be held at St. Luke's at which time Rev. Robert S. Church, of Toledo, Ohio, will speak. A large congregation is expected to attend this meeting.

TASKS OF COMMUNISTS OUTLINED BY RUSSIANS

Never Intended to Abandon Illegal Work in U. S., It Is Claimed.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 30.—(By the Associated Press.) The communist party of America never intended to abandon its illegal work in favor of the legal workers' party, but in fact had express orders from Moscow that the legal party was to be "but an instrument" of the illegal group, according to evidence offered by the state today in the trial of Charles E. Ruthenberg, charged with criminal syndicalism.

O. L. Smith, assistant attorney-general, of Michigan, read to the jury a special order from Moscow, signed by Bukharin, Hadek and Khusien, of the central executive committee of the third international, entitled "next tasks of the communist party of America," which detailed the plans for carrying on both legal and illegal work in this country.

Jay Lovestone, alias L. C. Wheat, former executive secretary of the communist party, on the stand as a witness for the defense, identified the Moscow order as one of the documents he brought to the communist convention at Bridgman last August, which led to the arrest of Ruthenberg, Lovestone and 24 others.

It must always be remembered that the real revolutionary party is the American section of the third international, the document said, "is the communist party of America, and that the legal party is but an instrument which it uses to better carry on its work among the masses. Only through membership in the American section—the communist party of America—can American workers become members of the communist international."

Ruthenberg's defense, as outlined by Frank P. Walsh, his attorney, is that the communists intended to abandon the illegal party and that his sole purpose in coming to the Bridgman convention was to present a program for carrying out the transfer to the workers' party.

The order from Moscow, however, directs that not only the illegal party structure should be maintained, but it should carry on all forms of underground work and operate an illegal party press to spread its illegal propaganda.

Kansas City, April 30.—The world will be liquor-free within 10 years, is the prediction of William E. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, noted dry worker, who arrived in Kansas City Monday for a lecture at the First Christian church.

"The liquor situation is getting better," Johnson said. "Every country is watching America. Even the Moslem leaders in Egypt are looking with approval on liquor prohibition."

"Pussyfoot," so christened because of his habit of unexpectedly appearing at parties where bootleggers, gamblers, and thieves were accustomed to hang out, is a veteran of hundreds of temperance battles.

The noted temperance worker carries scars of his work, one being the loss of an eye, as the result of being hit with a brick while lecturing in London. A mob broke up the meeting and Johnson was lucky to escape with his life.

He has a record of more than 6,000 federal indictments to his credit, and some of them, his "customers," as "Pussyfoot" now calls them, are still serving in penitentiaries.

"Pussyfoot" is a teetotaler. No beer and light wine in his program. "Why, light wine and beer are to blame for more than 90 per cent of liquor trouble," declared Johnson.

"All the drunkenness of Bible times was from light wine and beer," the president of the World's Alliance Against Alcoholism said.

Charged With Stealing.

Jess Parker, 24, of Riverside, and John Vaughn, 17, of 18 1/2 Riverside avenue, are being held at police headquarters under $3,000 bond charged with the theft of an automobile belonging to G. M. Bell, which was taken early Monday night from the front of his store at 774 Marietta street.

If he had his way, there'd be a world-wide circulating library of finger marks and all police departments would have at least a few men with a bent for this sort of literature.

And Here's China.

Then there's Mr. Gu Pang Wang, chief inspector of police in the province of Kiangsi, China. They know very little about finger print reading where he comes from but they have no mysteries and very little crime. And why? Mr. Jorgenson is one of the 500 police officials who have arrived here for the third international police conference in which the police of almost all the world are co-operating to bring distress into the lives of all sorts of criminals. He is one of the greatest finger print experts in the world. Given your finger prints, he can recite after 20 minutes perusal of the whorls and broken lines, the entire story of your life, including, that time you walked out of the drug store and didn't pay for the suadade.

The man is a menace.

Mr. Jorgenson will try again this time to arrange an efficient international system of exchanging finger prints of criminals. He read mysteries out of them as easily as a computer finds the 5:15 in the time table or a soulful shoe clerk in Greenwich village finds poetry in Amy Lowell's poems. If he had his way, there'd be a world-wide circulating library of finger marks and all police departments would have at least a few men with a bent for this sort of literature.

And Here's China.

NO ARMAMENT TREATY MADE

Discussions Before Pan-American Conference Relative to Agreement Definitely Break Down.

Santiago, Chile, April 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—The discussions before the Pan-American conference relative to an agreement on armaments have definitely broken down, as it has been found impossible to reconcile the views of the various delegations on this subject.

WOMEN ARRESTED AFTER EXPLOSION

One Woman Is Killed and Her Home Wrecked by Blast—Children Escape Unhurt.

Paducah, Ky., April 30.—Mrs. Henrietta Wagner, alias Thomas, and Mrs. Emma Skilman, both middle-aged women, were arrested in connection with the death of Mrs. Rosetta Daugherty Warren, who was killed in an explosion which wrecked her home here early today.

The women under arrest are charged with willful murder, conspiring to cause the death of Mrs. Warren.

Mrs. Warren's three children, who were asleep at the time of the explosion, escaped injury. Police and county authorities claim to have information pointing to participation of both women in the crime, it is said. Mrs. Wagner had threatened the life of Mrs. Warren on several occasions, they said. Mrs. Skilman is alleged to have aided and abetted in the conspiracy. Mrs. Wagner's motive is inexplicable at this time, but authorities thought it would ultimately be traced to a mad jealousy due to Warren's marriage. The dead woman's husband grew up in the home of Mrs. Wagner, it is understood.

ATTEMPT TO QUASH MORSE INDICTMENTS

Washington, April 30.—Renewed efforts by the defense to have quashed the indictments charging Charles W. Morse and others with war time ship frauds and the beginning of direct testimony with Major General George W. Goethals, retired, as the government's first witness were developments today in the Morse trial here.

The question of dismissing the indictments went over. It was raised by Attorney W. J. Lambert, who presented affidavits to support the contention that one of the grand jurors who returned the true bills was not a resident of the District of Columbia. At the same time Mr. Lambert told Justice Stafford that information concerning two other grand jurors had been obtained but that there had not been time to prepare it for formal presentation.

After examining supreme court decisions Justice Stafford informed counsel that the proper motion would be one of leave to file a motion to dismiss the indictments and counsel said this would be offered tomorrow. District Attorney Gordon entered a formal objection on the ground that the motion was tardy.

LYERLY DRUG STORE IS SOLD BY DOSTER

Lyerly, Ga., April 30.—(Special.)—The Doster Drug company, of this place, one of the largest retail drug concerns in northwest Georgia, has been sold to J. M. and J. P. Rose, of Lyerly, and possession will be obtained on May 1 by the new owners, who plan to continue to operate the business on the same basis as it has been operated in the past.

Dr. H. C. Doster, who has been at the head of the drug company for the past ten years, has bought a modern building at Buford, Ga., and will install a new stock of drugs and operate a retail drug business at that place. The deal was closed Saturday and is one of the most important business changes that has been made here in some time. The drug department will be in charge of J. W. Rose, who graduated from the Southern School of Pharmacy, of Atlanta, two years ago.

JOHN J. CUMMINGS DIES IN SAVANNAH

Savannah, Ga., April 30.—(Special.)—John J. Cummings, veteran business man of Savannah, president of the Savannah Lighting company and of the Savannah Lumber company, director in the Citizens & Southern bank and interested in many other enterprises here for years, died suddenly in the office of his attorney, Judge Samuel B. Adams, this afternoon, while conferring upon some matters of business.

GOOD-YEAR

VOICE OPPOSITION TO ROAD GROUPING

Chicago and Alton Railroad Goes on Record as Unalterably Against Consolidation Plan.

St. Louis, April 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Chicago and Alton railroad company went on record as unalterably opposed to the proposed grouping of the 1,000 railroad systems of the country into 19 big systems, at an interstate commerce commission hearing here today on the proposal.

The objections cited, asserted the proposal is the first step towards government ownership; would amount to confiscation of private property; is socialistic and if done would serve as a precedent for the nationalization of coal mines, steel plants, lumber mills and other industries.

BUSINESS FOUND GOOD IN WYOMING

wage envelope and profit in manufacturing turnover.

For the time being ledger balances are subordinated in both states to three economic problems of major importance in a local sense and of much greater vital concern than potential troubles of European origin. In which there is only passing interest.

In Grip of Oil Boom. Wyoming is striking oil or trying to. Every mountain and prairie creek bed is being turned up and over in search for "signs" established developments, already in the hands of the big petroleum companies, are stimulating the chase for new fields. Wildcatting in running wild than in the hectic mining camp days.

More good dollars are pouring into suspected oil "prospects" than ever pour out of the same. Hard-head business men (in other lines) are "grubstaking" venturesome prospectors as they did in the early days of Cripple Creek, Leadville and other picturesque camps that finally yielded more movie subjects than financial profits.

Wyoming not only thinks, but talks in terms of oil and alone. Cattle raising is melting away before the oil hunter and agriculturalists profitably specializing in beef sugar and sheep is struggling to hold its own; that's about all.

Oil is the thing in Wyoming now. It has passed the prospecting stage in Colorado and become an established and profitable industry. The state is lacking the romantic lure that grips the Wyoming imagination and entices the dollars of the stock gambler and his dupe in all parts of the country. Oil is proving a good thing for Wyoming as a state.

It prudently adds to its income from leasehold, and a third of the state is under leasehold.

Free of Transaction. A recent transaction provides comprehensive illumination on this point. A five-year lease awarded to one of the Standard Oil companies called for $50,000 cash and one-third of the output, the state reserving the right to sell its share to a large independent company. Politics is naturally taking a hand in the oil game and the result that the scandal and graft will come to Wyoming later.

Colorado is confronted with a mineral problem that for geological reasons Wyoming escapes. It concerns the future of the silver industry, the discussion of which is strongly reminiscent of the old "silver on one" days in politics. The Centennial state is second to California in the production of silver. The mines of Colorado are operating at about 60 per cent capacity for two reasons.

One is dictated by the laws of supply and demand; the other by labor conditions. The present rate for silver is $1 flat an ounce. It will be no less after August 1. The present rate was fixed by the Pittman act of 1917 to meet a situation provoked by war conditions. Great Britain was confronted by an economic problem in India which only the United States could relieve.

Needed Bullion. The British empire needed a large amount of silver bullion to stabilize its East Indian paper money which German propagandists convinced the natives was worthless.

The British government was compelled to find immediately a large supply of silver. The American treasury held a surplus of $300,000,000 in silver dollars and bullion. Great Britain proposed to buy this in installments. The price of $1 an ounce was agreed on and authorized by the Pittman act. By August 1 the transaction will have been completed. Then silver will automatically drop to around 65 or 70 cents an ounce. Gold is now $20.67 an ounce.

A committee created by the United States senate was authorized to investigate the silver situation and suggest some way to meet the new situation. The chairman of this committee was Senator Nicholson, republican of Colorado, who died a few weeks ago. Senator Sterling, of South Dakota, has been named to succeed him. Just what the committee can do to head off a drop in the price of silver is problematic. Its activities will probably be confined to reporting the facts.

The situation which will exist on the expiration of the Pittman act may be serious. Some sort of readjustment in production and wage scales will be necessary. Silver miners are today paid less than those engaged in the production of copper. Radical agitators have already initiated propaganda to bring about a recurrence of the disorders which crippled industry in every line fifteen years ago.

Colorado Mining Fields. The Colorado mining fields—coal, iron, copper and silver—have been favorite fields for radical ventures and damaging disorders on several occasions. The I. W. W. and the extreme "red" element in labor have stirred up a lot of trouble and may do so when the inevitable readjustment in the silver industry comes.

Silver producers are actively promoting action designed to open up the age-old controversy over justice of the ratio between gold and silver standards. It may again provide a sensational battle in one or both of the next dominating conventions just as it did in '96 when William Jennings Bryan won his first nomination—and defeated.

Another acute problem with which Colorado is wrestling is the proposal to merge into zones by consolidating under regional supervision the transportation systems of the state. The interstate commerce commission has been holding hearings throughout the west on the plan which will hook up the profitable units with the lean ones to make possible uniform rates, the elimination of disastrous competition and greater efficiency than is now possible.

It is the judgment of President Harding that the zone is something like it will prevent further demoralization transportation conditions and head off the widespread demand for government ownership. Colorado is vitally interested in the attempts of the administration to work out a solution of the rail problem, as in fact are all the mid-continent states.

Distributing Point. Denver, which is the chief distributing point for the Rockies, feels that her very economic life depends on the rail company she may find herself in. The Denver view of the situation is not shared by Pueblo, the main artery for coal, iron and steel production, nor by Salt Lake with which she should geographically be grouped according to competent authorities. Denver wants to be linked with some of the more important (to her) transcontinental lines which, according to her merchants, would give her merited economic opportunities.

The Denver Chamber of Commerce and leading newspapers have taken a lively hand in the hearings held by the interstate commerce commissioner. Representatives of the leading industries of the state have joined with these agencies in denouncing the plan that "would stifle the economic life of the state" by linking it up with the Denver and Rio Grande and other transportation units which they assert would circumscribe her legitimate trade privileges.

The attacks directed at the railways a few months ago have been shifted to the government plan for solving transportation faults. From present indication there will be a lively fight against any program that does not conform to the Denver view, aided and abetted by the advocates of so-called radical reforms who are actively promoting government ownership.

Sitting on Fence. The politicians of both parties in all the Rocky mountain states are sitting on the fence at present waiting with characteristic discretion to see which way the transportation cat is going to jump.

Political activities in Colorado and Wyoming are for the moment centered on local events. Denverites are engrossed with a lively row over the administration of its school system, which has always been held up as a model for the rest of the country to copy; the usual number of scandals over bootlegging which thrives mostly and profitably; the ineffectual attempt of the K. K. K. to gain a foothold beyond local fields. There appears to be little active interest in either Wyoming or Colorado in the revival at Washington of discussion over the league of nations and the president's proposal to join the international high court of justice which was created by the league.

Dominant sentiment in both parties does not appear to have changed about the league since the election of Mr. Harding. Opinions expressed by the man of the street and in the mining, agricultural and oil regions in the two states reflect a surprising degree of indifference toward the high court idea. It is unfavorable rather than otherwise.

Little Criticism. Democrats and republicans in Wyoming and Colorado believe Mr. Harding will be renominated. There is less criticism of his administration at present than before congress adjourned. He is credited with having done much better than the opposition charges and to be deserving of another term—if he wants it.

Hiram Johnson, Robert La Follette and Senator Borah will have supporters in the two states. Mr. La Follette rather more than he had three years ago. Both states have democratic governors and in a few weeks each will have one democratic and one republican senator. The death of Senator Nicholson provided Governor Sweet, of Colorado, with an opportunity to name a democrat.

Former President Wilson urged him to appoint Federal Trade Commissioner Huston Thompson. Leading democrats of the state and W. J. Bryan expressed preference for Al A. Adams, son of the three-times governor. Governor Sweet indicated he would take his time about it.

Democratic sentiment has not crystallized in favor of any aspirant for the presidential nomination. The supporters of Mr. McDoo have been active in both states, but there is no popular support for him.

Henry Ford's star seems to be in the ascendancy. Republicans and independent voters express the opinion he could walk away with the democratic delegation without half trying. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

Will show you how folks get those whiter, cleaner teeth

Go ask for a test of this new way of teeth cleaning. It means too much to miss. You see prettier teeth everywhere today. Learn how people get them.

Do this now. Millions of people of some 50 nations enjoy these benefits. Get them for yourself.

Film makes teeth dingy

That viscous film you feel on teeth is their chief enemy. It clouds them. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Film absorbs stains, then forms a dingy coat. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why few escaped tooth troubles.

Germens breed by millions in film. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, now so alarmingly common.

Now they curdle film

Old brushing methods did not effectively combat film. As a result, nearly all people suffered from it.

Now dental science knows two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. To millions of homes it has brought a new dental era.

Advised the world over

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Grand Opera's Social Events
Taking on National Scope

As an aftermath to the opera season of 1922, now that the week's festival of music is but a delightful memory which will cling to us until next year, one is reminded that this event marks Atlanta as the greatest social center of the south.

When the Metropolitan Opera company sings in this city the last week in April, social leaders from every southern state register their appreciation of music and are entertained at many societies especially given in their honor.

National Interest.

This week of music has already become of national interest, and people come from every part of the country. It has grown far beyond its present more or less sectional value. The group of visitors increases in number each year and these visitors return to their homes to sing of the glories and the pleasures attendant upon this auspicious occasion.

Likewise, the Mardi Gras in New Orleans, which started in a small way and has grown to be a famous part of the south's history, so will opera week in Atlanta enlarge its circles from year to year, until it too will become world famous.

It is a tremendous undertaking requiring vision, enterprise, energy and determination to develop an opera season in the south. No other city has done it. It remained for Atlanta, queen city, young, alert with vision bright and glorious to stamp herself as not only the musical center of the south, but as social Rome to which all roads lead for this festival occasion.

Fresh Inspiration.

The singers themselves say that they draw fresh inspiration for their work and renew ambitions and aims in the great incentive received from Atlanta's occasion.

One of them said while here, "I work hard the whole year through inspired by the thought of my glorious week in Atlanta to come. I love it, I love it, I love it—I hope that as long as I am a part of the Metropolitan singers I shall come again and again to this fair, friendly city, so beautiful and so kind."

It is something beyond the passing pleasure of the moment to bring within the reach of youth knowledge of the famous musicians of the world. Allied with the music are the romantic stories, legends and themes immortalized throughout the ages—not only, thus is spread before the eager mind of our young people, as well as the more matured vision of our older ones, music, but history, art, literature and a part of that part of life which is best and most valued—in a cultural sense, the best of operas given in the best way.

Birthday Party
Will Compliment
Gertrude Dickey

One of the very attractive parties of the day will be a birthday celebration which will assemble a large group of the very young members of society at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin J. Dickey on Andrews Drive in honor of the sixth birthday of little Miss Gertrude Dickey, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin J. Dickey.

The party will be held out-of-doors, on the lovely lawn of the Dickey home, and children's games will be enjoyed by the young guests between the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock.

Forty friends of the young honor guest have been invited.

Music Club
Will Present
Musical Program

The program on modern music which is to be presented at the Atlanta Music club on Wednesday morning at half past 10 o'clock is being anticipated with much interest by the club membership.

Mrs. Arnold Carroll will give a most interesting talk on the significance of modern music. Miss Mary Lansing will do a group of songs representative of the German, French and American schools. Charles and Mrs. Henrietta Hammond Candler will play the ever grateful Rachmaninoff prelude in G minor. Miss Margaret Battle, who has given so much pleasure by her singing in Atlanta, will sing two of George F. Lindner's songs; these being a setting of Tasso's poems, and excellently portraying in tonal language the atmosphere and transcendentalism of the Indian poet's works. Kurt Muelten, well-known pianist, will play a group of modern piano pieces of Schoenberg and Debussy, representative of the German and French schools.

Miss Ethel Boyer, an accompanist, rounds out the circle of these excellent musicians who have so graciously given their talents toward making this program a success.

Mrs. Mabelle S. Wall is chairman of the program.

Mrs. Frank Ellis
Luncheon Hostess.

An interesting event on Monday's social calendar was the luncheon at which Mrs. Frank Ellis entertained at her home on Peachtree circle complimentary to Mrs. Ernest Briscoe of Knoxville, Tenn., guest of Mrs. Frank Inman, and Mrs. Percy Smedley Darlington, of West Chester, Pa., and Mrs. John McKinlock, of Chicago, the guests of Mrs. Dunbar Roy.

A profusion of spring flowers decorated the rooms where the guests were received. The pretty luncheon table held in the center a silver basket filled with snapdragons, roses and other spring flowers. Silver candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers surrounded the central decoration.

Mrs. Ellis received her guests wearing a rich gown of gray crepe embroidered effectively in oriental design.

Twelve friends were invited to meet the honor guests.

Guests Honored
At Matinee and Tea.

A lovely event of Monday afternoon was the informal matinee party and tea at which Miss Isabel Breitenecker entertained in honor of three attractive visitors, Miss Ida Hecht, of Montello, who is her guest; Miss Mildred Gillis, who is visiting Mrs. T. T. Stevens, and Miss Elizabeth Tidwell, who is the guest of Mrs. H. H. McCall.

The guests for the matinee party at the Howard included a few intimate friends of the hostess. Ten additional friends were invited for tea at the home of Miss Breitenecker.

The rooms where the guests were received were decorated with spring blossoms artistically arranged.

Miss Breitenecker wore a becoming afternoon costume of tan crepe. A series of afternoon teas will be given by Miss Breitenecker during the month of May.

Mrs. Bayden
Is Entertained.

Mrs. Archibald H. Boyden, of Salisbury, N. C., who has been the much-talked-of guest of Mrs. Murrell Land and Miss Jeanie Kilutz, during opera week, will remain in Atlanta until Wednesday, when she leaves for Spartanburg, to attend the music festival, going from there to her home in Salisbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Land entertained at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Boyden Saturday at the Capital City club and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Fuller entertained informally at dinner Sunday evening at their home on Seventeenth street for this charming visitor.

Miss Dorothy Robertson and Miss Mabel Elders, of Baltimore, Md., are the guests of Mrs. Robert Hecht, at 15 Park Side drive, in Peachtree Heights.

Mrs. George W. Bosman is visiting relatives in Augusta, Ga.

Mrs. R. G. Braselton and son, Royce, Jr., have returned to Baseline, Ga., after having spent opera week as the guests of Miss Helen Bouzigues.

Miss Martha Boynton leaves Thursday for Princeton, N. J., where she will be a member of a houseparty given by the Charter club, of Princeton. Miss Boynton will visit in New York city also and later will visit Mrs. William Healey at Wilkesbarre, Penn. Miss Boynton will be absent two months.

North Carolinians Meet Tuesday.

The most important report to be given at the meeting of the North Carolina society to be held Tuesday afternoon at Edison hall at 3 o'clock will be made by Mrs. H. A. Shope, who is chairman of the luncheon to be given at the Druid Hills Golf club, May 11, at 12:30, in honor of the delegates who are to be here attending the biennial council. Mrs. Shope has appointed chairman for transportation, decorum, menu cards, reception, toasts, flowers, etc. These chairmen and their committees in full are requested to attend the meeting Tuesday as this is the last meeting before the council meets.

Mrs. Sydney Perry Cooper, president of the N. C. Federated clubs, has written accepting this invitation to the luncheon, and named prominent women who are coming to Atlanta for the biennial. All the members of the society who wish to attend the luncheon are asked to send checks for reservation to Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, 62 West Tenth street, at once. Mrs. Cooper will receive dues from new members Tuesday at the meeting at Edison hall, as well as from those who have not paid their dues previously.

Women Voters' League Begins Registration Week

The League of Women Voters will conduct a registration week for men and women, beginning Tuesday morning.

There will be a registration booth erected in the Arcade building opposite the postoffice for the convenience of those who wish to register.

If you have not registered since last year, it is well to remember that the Georgia law requires registration six months before the general election in November.

Mrs. Harry Chamberlin, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, in speaking of the registration plans said:

"While this is an off year for state and county elections, and no regular election is scheduled for November, there are two reasons for registering within the six months' limit: First, there may be a vacancy caused by death or resignation of one of the state or county officials, which would necessitate a called election, and; second, if a voter fails to pay a poll tax for any one year, he or she is liable for a double tax, plus cost and interest."

"Nineteen and twenty-two was the first time women have been required to pay poll tax, which tax was payable on or before December 19," continued Mrs. Chamberlin. "Women who pay no other taxes than poll tax have not yet learned that they are in arrears unless the poll tax is paid by December 19."

"It is a part of the work of the League of Women Voters to supply this sort of information."

"W. S. Richardson, county tax collector, has kindly agreed to help the women registered by sending one of his deputies to attend to the registering of the citizens of Atlanta at the Arcade building near the branch postoffice."

"Any woman who has not paid poll tax or is in doubt must register at the courthouse as taxes cannot be collected at the Arcade booth."

Mrs. Chamberlin and Mrs. R. L. Turner, of the League of Women Voters, urge all members of the league not only to register themselves but to urge everyone else to register.

Mrs. Peeples Is Hostess at Tea.

Mrs. Edwin Peeples was a charming hostess on Monday afternoon when she entertained at tea at her home on East Fourteenth street, complimentary to her guest, Mrs. Jules Valle, of St. Louis and Washington.

The reception rooms were decorated with many spring flowers in artistic arrangement.

The guests were a few intimate friends of the hostess.

Gillespie Sailer will receive dues from new members Tuesday at the meeting at Edison hall, as well as from those who have not paid their dues previously.

Prominent Woman is Honored By Noted Southern Writer

Mrs. Warren D. White, as pictured in Mrs. Bryan Wells Collier's new book, "Representative Women of the South."

In glancing through the "Representative Women of the South," a recent book by Mrs. Bryan Wells Collier, a noted southern writer, one finds a number of well known Atlanta women. Among the number is Mrs. Warren D. White, a beloved and honored citizen of this city. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren White in Inman park has been for a period of 25 years a center of true southern hospitality.

Mrs. White is a prominent and active worker in the civic, social and patriotic organizations of the city. She has the gift of executive ability and other splendid traits of leadership which have been demonstrated in the many high offices which she has held.

During her administration as regent of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., the cornerstone for Habersham Memorial hall was laid, and the crowning work for this patriotic society was the collection of World War records and the making of the service flag while historian of the chapter.

As charter member and present corresponding secretary of the Uncle Remus Memorial association, a loving and loyal service has been rendered by Mrs. White to that organization and she has won the appreciation of the Atlanta chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, by having had copied under her direction the entire roster of 1,250 names of the chapter, which was a tremendous task, requiring many months of tedious labor.

Mrs. White is life president of the Inman park Friday Evening club, which was organized in 1913, also president of the Northside Embroidery club, which is composed of a group of prominent Atlanta women who have been life-long friends. Mrs. White is a charter member of the Inman Park Students' club, having served this most cultural organization in every official capacity.

Atlanta, as well as the entire south, should feel a deep sense of gratitude to its daughter, Mrs. Bryan Wells Collier, for having given the opportunity of knowing the true worth of southern women through her book, "Representative Women of the South."

Special Dance For Masons.

On Wednesday evening a special dance will be given by the Masons at Segado's hall, 16 East Pine street. A quartet composed of C. W. McGill, Dr. Green, W. W. Burns and W. M. Bourdieu will render several songs and the Georgia Serenaders will play. All Masons and their vouchered friends are invited.

Sixth District Will Convene In Macon

The thirteenth annual convention of the sixth district Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs will be held in Macon, Friday, May 4, by invitation of the Macon Woman's club. The morning session will be held at 10:30 o'clock. Mrs. Lawton Miller, president of Macon Woman's club, will preside.

The following program will be given:

Reports of sixth district clubs by county federation presidents. Reports of sixth district chairmen. Report of resolution committee.

Invitation for 1924 convention. Song, "Hail to the Flag That Brings Us."

Luncheon Honors Miss Cummer.

An enjoyable event of Monday given for one of the very attractive opera guests was the luncheon at which Mrs. Eugene Callaway entertained at the Druid Hills club in honor of Miss Ada Cummer, of Jacksonville, Fla., and her lovely debutante hostess, Miss Emmie Nixon.

The centerpiece on the richly appointed luncheon table was a large basket filled with spring flowers in the pastel shades. Encircling this were silver candlesticks holding unshaded pink tapers. The places of the guests were marked by handpainted cards.

Mrs. Callaway received in a gown of coral crepe, fashioned in the draped style. Her hat was a model of brown straw.

Miss Cummer's gown was of brown crepe combined with lace. She wore a hat of the same shade.

Miss Nixon was lovely in navy blue georgette, worn with picture hat of blue straw, trimmed with field flowers.

The guests were Miss Cummer, Miss Nixon, Miss Sarah Orme and her guest, Miss Emily Hayne, of New Orleans, La.; Miss Annie Grant, Miss Mary Shedd, Miss Louise Inman, Miss Martha Vinton and her guest, Miss Margaret Carr, of Durham, N. C.; Miss Kristine Jarasch, Miss Elizabeth Kott, Miss Mary Nevin, Miss Kate Palmour, Miss Corneille Torrance, Miss Jennie Robinson, Miss Emily Davis, Miss Virginia Ingram, Mrs. Charles Rawson, Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Jr., and Mrs. Callaway.

Pioneer Society Will Meet.

The Women's Pioneer society will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Edison hall.

All members are urged to be present.

Peachtree Garden to Stage Flower Show on May 28

The first flower show sponsored by the Peachtree Garden club will be held Monday afternoon, May 28, at 3 o'clock, at the Piedmont Driving club, and all members are requested to exhibit.

Exhibitions must be entered by 2 o'clock, and arrangement and reception will count in awarding the ribbons. All flowers must be raised by the exhibitor.

The judges will be selected by the committee, and the prizes will be ribbons, the first, blue; second, red; and third, yellow ribbons. A sweepstake prize will be awarded, and this must be won three times before it becomes the permanent possession of the owner.

The members of the club met Monday afternoon at Knollwood, the home of Mrs. William H. Kiser, on Face's Ferry road.

A very instructive talk was given by Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw, member of the College Park Woman's club. She dissected the dahlia bulb and pointed out the features to guard against and those to follow in raising dahlias. Mrs. Crenshaw also talked to the members on the cultivation of chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Phinley Calhoun, president of the club, was in the chair, and reports were read by the secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Charles A. Sisson read a report on plant exchange. Mrs. Robert F. Maddox reported on the flowers which are now blooming or in readiness to bloom.

Mrs. William P. Hill, vice president of the organization, reported on the flower show arrangements, the committee composed of Mrs. Frank Adams, chairman, Mrs. Henry Johnson and Mrs. Edwin H. Johnson.

Mrs. W. A. Wright Wins Prize.

At the annual meeting of the Atlanta Ladies' Memorial association, the following officers were elected: Mrs. William A. Wright, president; Mrs. William F. Williams, first vice-president; Mrs. Robert G. Stephens, second vice-president; Mrs. Robert Blackburg, third vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Wilson, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Lewis Thomas, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles F. Way, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Samuel Goode, treasurer; Miss Willie Williams, director of the Junior Memorial association.

Reports were made by Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Harper, of the New Orleans convention of the Southern Confederate Memorial association.

Mrs. William A. Wright, president of the State Memorial association, won the $25 prize offered by Mrs. E. L. Merry for the best work done by memorial associations.

The principal interest now is the completion of the Jefferson Davis monument.

Sunday Concerts At East Lake.

The East Lake Country club will feature Sunday evening concerts from 6 to 8 o'clock from now till October 1. Many members motored out last week to enjoy the first of a series of these delightful musicals.

The dance-dance at East Lake Country club Saturday was a delightful ending of a week of unusual entertainment for opera stars and out-of-town visitors who were guests of many members through the brilliant week of Metropolitan opera. Dinner was served at 8 o'clock in the dining room, followed by dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ragadale entertained a party of fourteen in compliment to Miss Catherine Barrett, of Miami, Fla. The round table placed in the sun parlor was artistically decorated with yellow tulips, white narcissus and ferns and unshaded blue tapers. Covers were placed for Miss Catherine Barrett, of Miami, Fla.; Dr. and Mrs. Guy Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hoizer, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Bussey, Fred Tedger, Joe Branan, Glenn Evans, Thompson Bussey and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ragadale.

Dining together were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Shearer and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Feeney.

Forrest Avenue P.-T. A. Will Sponsor Party.

The Forrest Avenue Parent-Teacher association will give a benefit bridge Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the Imperial hotel. There will be lovely hand-embroidered table covers for high score at each table, also a number of handkerchiefs donated by Atlanta firms to be drawn for.

Those wishing to make reservations please call Mrs. H. C. Halsey, Ivy 1124-J; Mrs. Phil Cohen, Ivy 6742-W, or Mrs. M. E. Allen, Ivy 9285. Tables are $2 each and players are asked to bring their own cards and pencils.

Writers' Club Will Meet.

The Writers' club will hold its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, May 2, at 4 o'clock in the city club rooms on Poplar street. George Gramham, of the Georgia School of Technology, will be the principal speaker, and Mrs. C. Gainer Turner will give several readings. Miss Margaret Nelson will sing a group of songs, accompanied at the piano by Prof. Alfredo Barilli. In the absence of the president, Dudley Cowles, Miss Mary Brent Whiteside, vice-president, will preside.

A special meeting of the membership committee was held yesterday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Whiteside, 46 Columbia avenue.

So Writes Woman After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Jamestown, N. Y. "I was very weak, easily excited and discouraged and had no ambition. I was not able to sit up as I suffered with pains in my back and in my weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's vegetable compound and, both the liquid and tablet forms, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for inflammation. Today I am real well and run a rooming house and do the work. I recommend your medicine to every woman who complains, and you may use my letter to help any one else. I am passing through the Change of Life now and I keep the Vegetable Compound in the house, ready to take when I feel the need of it."—Mrs. ALICE D. DAVIS, 203 W. Second St., Jamestown, N. Y.

Often some slight derangement may cause a general upset condition of the whole system, indicated by such symptoms as nervousness, backache, lack of ambition and general weakness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine for such troubles. In many cases it has removed the cause of the trouble.

The Suite Advertised in Your Favorite National Magazine for May by Berkey & Gay

"The Holyoke"

Happily appropriate for the school girl's own chamber, this new suite is equally at home in the guest room. To the one it brings an intimately personal touch, to the other a restful, inviting air of quiet refinement.

Simplicity is the key to its charm. Yet it has delightful decorative value, through the skillful use of American Walnut of varied textures, enriched by narrow gold banding and panels of East India Satinwood, and embellished with a hand-painted floral spray on Bureau and Chiffonobe.

In its through-and-through excellence—and its moderate pricing nevertheless—"The Holyoke" is splendidly representative of the high standard of quality and value that our Berkey & Gay productions give you.

This lovely Chamber Suite is the newest creation of Berkey & Gay, and released for selling through their May advertising in your favorite magazine. See page 152, May issue, of "Good Housekeeping."

THE VITAL FLAME

BY MAY CHRISTIE

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions

CHAPTER LII

They Meet Again.

Chapter LII—They Meet Again.
"Speaking of the girl question," she remarked. "You've lots of old maids in this country, haven't you?"
The other wheeled about.
"We don't call 'em old maids. They're 'single women.' And we don't ever look down on 'em, as in your country. They're usually single from choice, and nearly all have interesting professions, and that's husband enough for them."
"I suppose all of them could get married, if they wanted to?"
"Certainly. Any woman can get married, surely. You don't question that, do you?"
"Well," said Marcella slowly, "usually that's so. But in some countries, like France and England, there's supposed to be a man-shortage."
"Then the women who want to marry, and can't find a mate at home, ought to emigrate. Look at your tremendous colonies, just waiting for children to be born!"
That fact was indisputable.
"Speaking of Englishmen," resumed the pretty Chicago girl, with considerable animation, "I met the most fascinating creature today at a luncheon. I got the afternoon off from the office to attend this function. That's why I'm here, and not working, as usual."
"I see," said Marcella, feeling that comment was expected.
"He was so handsome! Such finish and such lovely manners! And I simply loved his accent! How on earth do they do it?"
The English girl laughed outright.
"I rather expected him to be a 'frenk,' went on the other, confidentially. "Because he's a sort of genius. High art and all that kind of thing. But he had the nicest clothes—sort of unobtrusive, yet just right; and such a smart, simple cut—and his hands weren't all clay, or paint, or whatever it is he does, but very clean and well-groomed, with long slim fingers like a surgeon."
"Who was this super-man?" inquired Marcella, much amused.
The answer was a staggering shock to her.
"A handsome fellow called Miles Holden. Intriguing name, isn't it?"
—this name, Miles Holden, coming from the lips of this young Chicago girl, who once loved her the same "handsome fellow" who fascinated her young American friend in the strange city of Chicago?

Ah, yes, there was the rumor of his visiting America. But the rumor was not confirmed. The rumor did not have to be confirmed. He was here. She felt it. It was a reality. The mention of his name in far off Chicago impressed her. It was a message of fate.
On the second morning of the Chicago visit, Marcella stole out by herself along the boulevard.
The news of Miles' presence in the town had been curiously disturbing. She longed—yet dreaded—she might see him. He haunted her, yet she welcomed it. Somehow there was an inevitable attachment but it was never binding. Circumstances always seemed to interfere, and after the interference a new turn of affairs brought them together again.
And here he was in Chicago. Were they to meet here and were the flames of love to rise again from the fervor of their feeling for each other? How romantic and thrilling and desirable it would be, but then would it all end again so coldly, dispassionately? What was keeping them apart? The logical surmise of the whole affair ended discouragingly and distressingly whenever she dwelt on it. Miles loved her—she was convinced of this. But there was Warwick Tremant—and her promise.

As though Tremant sensed the presence of a rival, he had safeguarded the girl's every moment, and even when she stayed up in her own room he had been "on duty" in the lobby of the big hotel, seated in chair opposite the elevators, or chatting with the newsstand girl, one eye on the alert for his uncertain young fiancée.

Embarrassing Hairs Can be Quickly Removed

(Beauty Culture)
Hairs can be easily banished from the under-arms, neck and face by this quick, painless method: Mix into a stiff paste some powdered delatone and water, spread on hairy surface and in 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or bluish. Exceeding in very stubborn growths, one application is sufficient. To avoid disappointment, buy the delatone in an original package and mix fresh.—(adv.)

Coffee Prohibited

Coffee has grown in Arabia from time immemorial. The ancient Arabic Mohammedan priests called it an intoxicant and prohibited its use because it aided adherents in staying awake during the severe penance period.

of object, a desire to get somewhere in the quickest possible time.
"Even on Fifth Avenue, they don't hurry so," thought Marcella.
The impression of riches, power and magnificent growth came back to her again with forcefulness. Last night at the dinner party her partner, a university man, had called the city "terrace." But underlying that criticism she could sense the terrific pride and love he felt for it. Even as a newcomer, she could feel Chicago's potent charm. Young it was and crude it might be, but it had a giant strength, a giant energy, and a giant brain.
She smiled at an advertisement on a newsstand:
"Be a Chicago Booster to Your Friends in Other Cities."
Turning away from the Boulevard, she smiled again at a restaurant which bore in enormous letters the one word, "Eat."

At last she reached Washington park, and paused before the dazzling snowiness of the monument to Time. There were others gazing up at the triumphant piece of sculpture.
"Marcella!"
She turned quickly, her heart pounding in her throat. The one voice in all the world that had brought her so much of happiness and so much of pain!
"Miles! You here?"
Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.
Another fine installment tomorrow.

Perhaps Miles had tried to get in touch with her? Perhaps he'd followed her to the Windy City? Wasn't there even a possibility that he'd been on the same train, and that Warwick had seen him? Hence this bulldozing and detective work?
She had had a vague, persistent hope that he might be at last night's dinner, or afterwards at her father's lecture.
But no! Neither function witnessed his presence.
Marcella hurried along the Boulevard, afraid of Tremant following her. The urge to get away from him, to have a "breather" from the stifling confines of this "engagement," had never been so potent.
She drew long breaths of the keen air that blew across the lake.
"How huge Chicago is," thought she, "and how almost impossible that Miles and I could accidentally meet each other!"
None the less, the hope lingered. Crowds went hurrying by, with preoccupied faces that held a singleness

BARNARD PURCHASES PROPERTY FOR $36,000

A. S. Barnard has purchased from B. H. Collins the northeast corner of Ponce de Leon avenue and North Jackson street for $36,000, according to an announcement made Monday by the lease draper agency. The draper agency was represented in the transaction by Hilliard Spalding.
The purchaser leased the site to the Reed Oil company for 10 years at an annual rental of $3,000, it was stated. The lessee will improve it.

$600,000 Apartment House Is Planned On Ponce de Leon

An apartment house to be seven or eight stories high and to cost upwards of $600,000 will be built in the near future on Ponce de Leon avenue near Piedmont avenue by the Massell Realty company, it was announced Monday by Ben J. Massell, head of the Massell interests, who, together with Ben F. May, purchased the site from the Peters Land company several days ago.

The property is immediately east of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, which is situated at Ponce de Leon and Piedmont avenues. The lot has a frontage of 180 feet.
The proposed building will contain 100 apartments, and will be built by the Massell Construction company. E. C. Seiz will be the architect. Mr. Massell and Mr. May will own the structure jointly, it is said. Actual work will begin within the next month or six weeks.

Railroad Rates and Schedules Announced for Mid-Biennial

For the mid-biennial council meeting in Atlanta on May 7-11, a convention rate of one and one-half the regular fare for the round trip on the certificate plan has been granted by all the various passenger associations contingent on the usual requirement of 250 certificates. Validation of certificates is set for May 11. Certificate should be secured when purchasing tickets. The purchaser of a ticket pays regular fare to Atlanta and upon presentation of the properly validated certificate to the ticket agent at Atlanta the return ticket is issued for one-half the regular fare. Inquiries of railroad ticket agents relative to certificates should be made in advance for they are not kept all the time at all small stations.

Tickets for the Atlanta meeting will be on sale May 3-8 throughout the east, southeast and middle states. From the Pacific coast states April 30 to May 6 and western states May 1-7.

Pullman reservations for return trip should be made at Atlanta as early as possible to avoid inconvenience. Prompt attention should be given to this matter of reservations.

Announcement of Schedules.

"Dinnie" McDonald Begins Junior League Follies Work

Atlanta's annual social extravaganza, the Junior League Follies, is now fully under way, after the initial meeting Monday night of 150 young Atlanta people who will participate, with "Dinnie" McDonald, of New York, directing the revue.

As only three weeks will elapse before the curtain is rung up on the first performance, Mr. McDonald began work Monday night on the songs and dances which will feature the "Follies" and issued a call for the first of intensive rehearsals.

Three songs were announced—"Ohio," "Two Little Wooden Shoes" and "Will She Come From the East?"—and several steps were exhibited by the director.

The next gathering of those who will take part will be this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Craigie house, the chapter house of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mr. McDonald will attend the meeting this afternoon of the Junior league at the Piedmont Driving club, and will divulge further plans for the occasion later in May, when the "Follies" will hold the stage at the Atlanta theater for three nights and a Wednesday matinee, beginning Monday, May 21.

Rehearsal will also be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock and it is expected that Director McDonald will begin at the first rehearsals to divide the large cast into the several classes which will perfect their separate offerings for the spectacle.

Miss Henrietta Tupper and Mrs. Eloise Robinson Dickey are the league's co-chairmen for the "Follies." The various committees include: Mrs. Robin Adair and Miss Marion Smith, tickets; Mrs. Fay Wesley Ream and Miss Katherine Erwin, properties; Mrs. Chester Booth, costumes; Miss Nellie Dodd and Miss Sarah Schoen, ushering; Mrs. Reginald Pope, telephone; Miss Anne Grant and Miss Louise Imman, music; Miss Virginia Pegram, publicity; and Mrs. Alene Fielder Struble and Mrs. Robert Hugh White, Jr., soft drinks and cigarettes.

There are no drugs for reduction that would be safe to take. Edith A.—Directions for dieting would consume too much space to print at this time. Also you gave me no idea whether you desired directions for reduction or increasing weight, so I cannot even give you suggestions. All this information will be mailed to you, however, if you send a stamped, addressed envelope, repeating your request.

P. R. J.—A dermatologist will be able to tell you whether or not the scar can be removed. You may also get reliable information of this kind at any of the hospitals, especially those specializing in skin ailments.

M. R.—Instead of once a week, use the hair tonic three times, and massage the scalp well every day to help in this effort of stimulating the color secretion. If you are run down or extremely nervous, it will take even more local treatment to attain the desired results. If you are anemic the hair will show it. In such a case a blood tonic will help the coloring.

George L.—Your shiny, red nose cannot be helped through a skin bleach, as the trouble is not with the skin. In most cases of this kind there is an impaired color, some other blemish with the organs of elimination. Try drinking plenty of water between meals, eat at least a half, if not a whole grapefruit before breakfast and include a green vegetable with the dinner.

Tomorrow—An Eyselax Tonic.
All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns.

ANSWERED LETTERS.
Mrs. G. L. M.—I will be glad to send you the formula for a tonic for the lashes which will also darken them. If you wish this send a stamped, addressed envelope.

Duffy.—Unless your dark brown hair would be improved by using henna, there is no reason why it should be used, merely because of its being a gift.

Henna is used in three ways, to tint stray grey hairs so they will not be so noticeable, to give a slight reddish tint to hair that is lifeless in color, or to color the whole head henna shade.

The article you mention is a trade preparation, so I do not know anything about its merits.

R. W.—Massaging the muscles of the face is done very little any more, as the work must be done very skillfully, else the result is harmful rather than helpful. Massaging nourishing oils or creams into the skin is done after the finger tips or the vibrator. This sort of treatment, together with astringents at times, will keep the skin firm and the tissues built up, so there is less tendency to lines than in the old way of the vigorous massage.

Mrs. Anna H.—An increase in weight of 30 pounds in a year at the age of 19 is almost incredible. I do not wonder that you feel ill. A thorough physical examination would be advisable, then you will know just what sort of treatment you need to regain your normal weight and good health.

Don't forget to feed my baby chicks and don't get lonesome for your loving little girl.

LAUNDRY CONTAINERS
In selecting a container for clothes to go to the laundry the space that it is to occupy is always one of the first to be considered. Usually laundry baskets are chosen to fit a certain space and shape. We decide whether we can have a basket or a bag according to the room we have to give up to it.

Another consideration, though one that we do not think of so often has to do with their cleanliness. The bag or basket should always be of the type that can be cleaned readily. Some bags and some baskets come up to a high standard in this regard, but some of both types do not.

Then laundry containers must be light enough to be easily moved about. That is always an important consideration, and they must be durable. More ornateness is one of the last things that should be considered. A laundry bag that is so decorative that it cannot be washed frequently should have no place in an up-to-date home.

Spirit laundry baskets are used in many houses and institutions, but those of paper mache, made perfectly smooth within and without, can be kept dust free at very little expense of labor. Any laundry container that has a smooth, firm surface is to be preferred to one having crevices and interest.

There are new laundry containers consisting of heavy canvas or duck bags suspended from nickel rings. The rings remain stationary, attached to bathroom or pantry wall, and the bags are removed when filled and sent to the laundry. There should always be two or more of the bags, so that they can be replaced when removed. No device for holding soiled clothes could be much more hygienic than one of these.

Here's $10 For Your Old Stove

From May 1 to 15, inclusive, we will allow you a $10.00 credit on your old stove, if it is a gas, coal or wood stove with four or more "eyes," or an oil stove with three or more "eyes," provided you live within reach of our gas service.

We make the substitution without charge to you for connection, removal or drayage.

See Our Ranges

You will be delighted with any of our makes—the Detroit-Jewel, the Clark-Jewel, the Roper and Vulcan. They are equipped with labor-saving conveniences, many with rust-resisting linings.

This is an opportunity to replace that worn-out gas range, that used and dirt-making oil or wood stove with a new, modern gas range. Frankly, there is going to be an advance in gas range prices. This is due to the fact that manufacturing costs have advanced and our next shipment of ranges will cost us more. If you are contemplating buying a gas range in the near future DO IT NOW while this offer is on.

JIL-BETT

BY LAURA JEAN LIBBEY

Down there, with the sun's rays lighting up every nook and cranny, he felt she must soon locate the object she was in search of.

Close by was the wreck of a steamboat that had been wrecked on the shoals. When she had gone down at that vicinity in other days, she had resolutely turned her back on the skeletal skeletons entangled in the wreckage, swaying to and fro with every stir of the waves, the denizens of the deep gliding about them.

Jil-Bett had never ventured past them without a lump rising in her throat and a tear to her eyes, thinking, no doubt, they had been happy sailors, who had lost their lives at the helm. In her heart there had always come the silent prayer to God to comfort those who had loved them, and watched and waited in vain for their coming.

She had not time for speculation on this particular morning. Moments were precious, and rushing swift-winged past her. She had marked the spot well; her experienced eye soon discerned the box she sought. For an instant she stood gazing upon it with fascinated eyes.

"Grandfather," she murmured, "your Jil-Bett will soon know if this box contains that which you toiled over with such a world of hope and joy. If it does, it will fix Ben-Ali, and your worst enemy, as the thief!"

The box was fully a road away; she knew there were treacherous depths in that vicinity. As she took the first step forward she saw, approaching her, a shark of no small dimensions. The huge fish swam in a circle around her, its glistening eye meeting and holding her own.

Jil-Bett, brought up in these waters, as it were, had never known fear. It was by no means the first shark she had encountered, but on all previous occasions she had always carried her trusty knife unheeded in her right hand, picking up the shells dimly with her left. For the first time she stood on the ocean's bed with nothing to protect herself from an attack.

In that instant she remembered she had seen a small searchlight lying on the deck one day, which she had slipped into the pocket of the jacket of her suit—it was Jack's.

With a coolness which would have done credit to the oldest and most experienced of divers, she drew it instantly forth, focusing it upon the shark. The sun's rays caught the magnified light, reflecting it, sending its dazzling, blinding light directly into the eyes of the advancing monster. Stunned, it whirled shapely about, making desperately for deep water.

The encounter had occupied scarcely more than a moment of time, but it seemed to Jil-Bett that a much longer time had been consumed.

There was another who watched the sun rise with equal impatience that morning. Ben-Ali had passed a restless night, thinking and planning. He had come to the conclusion that the ocean's bed might not be a safe place after all for the valuable box he had deposited there the night before.

"I will bring it up from the water and take it along with me, or rather the contents of the box."

He would have fully an hour to accomplish this ere the Katar divers would be astir.

In another room, the Arabian woman was preparing the morning meal. Ben-Ali knew he must use strategy in succeeding to elude her to get down to the water. He did not intend that she would see him either dive down or bring up the box. If she saw it, she would insist upon its being opened, and appropriate its contents then and there. With the gold it contained he meant to put Arabia far behind him.

Stealthily as he had his steps, her quick ear caught them. "Where now?" she asked, standing with arms akimbo, baring the exit.

"I must walk before I can eat," he replied tartly.

"Since when?" she demanded, eyeing him sharply.

"Let me pass," he cried, seizing her by the arm, attempting to hurl her by main force from the doorway. Strong and wiry though he was, he found an opponent of equal strength in her.

"So you would go out, eh—well, I go with you. There will not be a moment when you will be out of my sight; understand that."

"No woman shall ever rule Ben-Ali," he screamed, making a lunge at her and catching her by the waist. In a twinkling, and before she could catch her breath, he had flung her aside and dashed through the door.

As he had expected, taught by the experience of the previous day, she was at his heels. He knew she would last until both felt exhausted. Stopping short, he allowed her to catch up with him, which she did with alacrity, reaching out and grasping his wrist with a steel-like grasp, at the same time uttering a shrill laugh of triumph that stung him so he would have used his clenched fist on her had he dared.

"Maybe you have had exercise enough, and are ready to go back and eat," she sneered.

Ben-Ali nodded: "Yes, and I've given you a little exercise which you needed."

By this time they had gained the water's edge, but at some little distance away from the spot where he wanted to reach. He saw there was nothing for it but to let her know, as nearly as possible, the object of his wanting to come out.

"I have just recollected I had a little work to do here," he said, pointing to a jutting of hand further out. "There's a box of government papers down there, in which are laid out the exact spot where the oyster beds are located, not only on the Kaar coast but elsewhere; I want that box. The information it contains would be most valuable to me, and to you, of course."

"How do you know it is down there?" she queried suspiciously.

"They had me take it down and plant it for them."

"Why should they put valuable papers on the ocean bed, instead of in their strong boxes in their iron vaults?"

"How do I know their reasons?" he returned surlily, "and I don't care what they are. Get that box I will; there's no time to lose, for they will ask me to go down for it today; after I fetch it up to them my every hope of learning the secret the box contains will be gone."

"If I could only trust you, Ben-Ali," she said.

"You shall go to the spot with me where I shall go down, and a moment more I will be up with it."

That seemed to satisfy her. "If you mean to cheat me, elude me in any way, you had better stay down there for all time to come up on any other place and try to raze me and lose me."

"I'm not a sea-monster, that I can stay under water for any length of time, getting from one place to another, without being in a diving suit. You ought to know that, woman."

At that instant Ben-Ali's eye caught sight of Mudge and Jil-Bett in the distance, advancing, then pausing at the very spot at which he intended to go down. A fierce impression broke from his lips. The woman beside him saw them, too.

"They will see you; will you go down for the box anyhow?"

She was astounded when she turned to Ben-Ali and her eyes fell on his face. It was livid; his eyes were bulging out as though they would burst from their sockets; his thin lips were purple; the veins on his neck stood out like whiplashes, while great drops of perspiration oozed out from every pore, rolling down his face in great drops.

"The box contains something better than paper; no doubt there are fine pearls in it—I have always wanted pearls," she cried, facing him.

He made her answer, but leaped forward like an infuriated animal who saw its prey about to be wrested from him. By leaps and bounds he reached Mudge's side; as he swiftly advanced, he saw him adjust the diving suit on Jil-Bett. He shouted hoarsely for them to desert, but the wind carried his voice in another direction; they did not hear, nor did they see him approaching on a run.

When Hearts Command

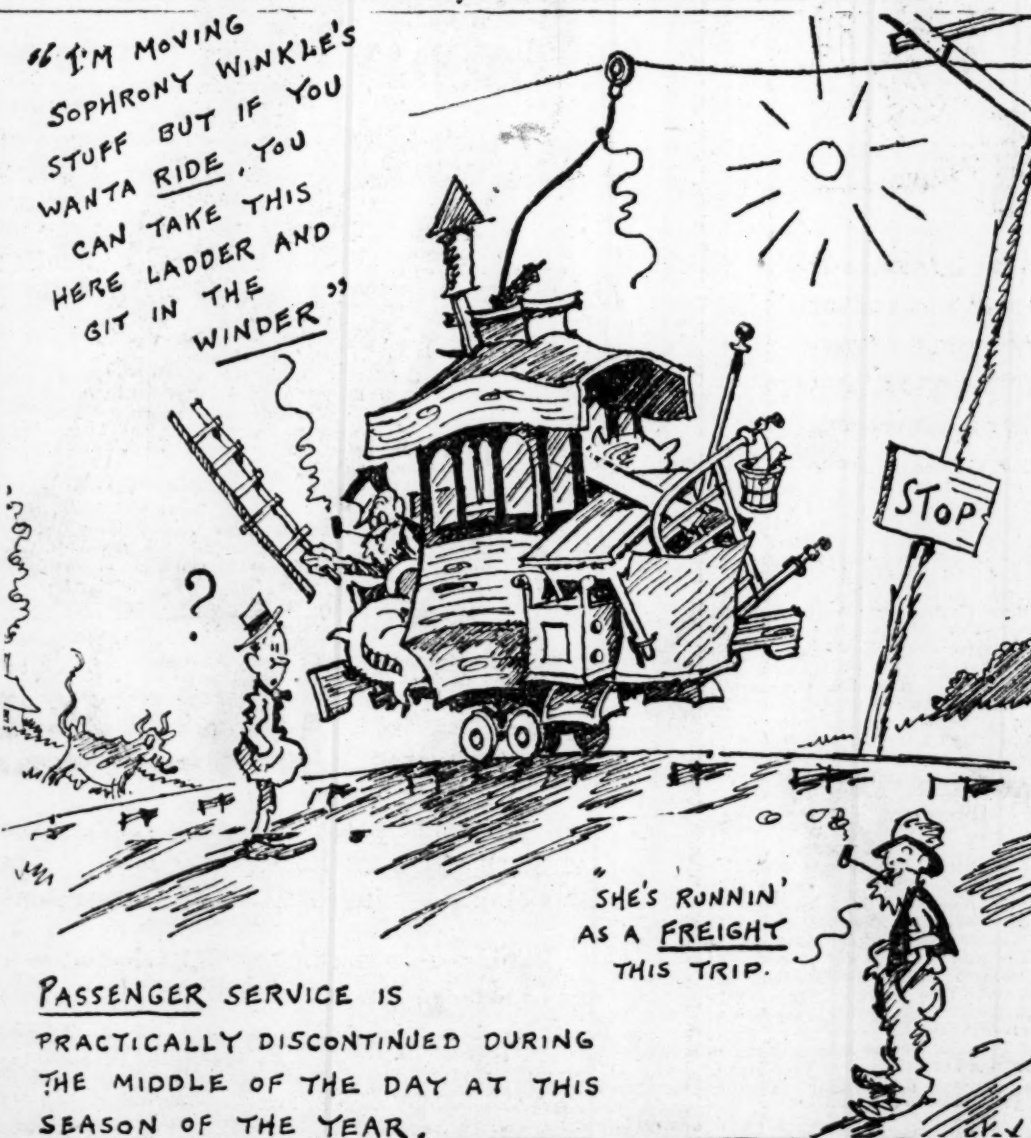

BY ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

The doors all communicating. Hugo was given the run of their now extensive suite, and eventually found his way to the sitting room, which he had not entered before. He was half dressed, with a faded old bathrobe over his shirt and trousers and badly needed a shave. A stubbly white haze disgraced his chin, and he wore no collar. He looked a weak but somewhat ruffianly person as he ambled about making himself acquainted with these new surroundings.

The room, as usual, overflowed with flowers which Hector Gaunt sent down regularly. Hugo looked them over with suspicion. There were two small photographs of Alice, one on the mantle and one on the writing table, and these he also inspected. After this he went out on to the balcony and, looking down, discerned the heads of some people having tea on the veranda far below him. One woman wore a large hat bobbing with yellow flowers. What would happen if he should fill his bath sponge with water and let it suddenly rain on her?

With this amusing idea taking form in his mind he stepped into the room just as someone knocked at the door.

"Come in," he said sullenly.

The door opened, and to Hugo's utter amazement, there entered a man who was more familiar to him than his own brother. He clapped a hand to his forehead and gave a faint cry. Was he back in That Place?

The newcomer, clad in tennis flannels, stared at him with widening eyes and dropped jaw.

Hugo Smarke began to whimper.

"I won't go back—you can't make me. I won't go. This is Italy. You can't take me back if I say I won't go."

Philip Ardeyne shut the door, then—as an afterthought—locked it. "I'm not going to take you anywhere," he said. "But of course you can't stay in this room. How did you get here? Does your balcony adjoin this one?"

Hugo, with a trembling hand, pointed through the line of open doors. "That's my room."

The doctor looked and saw that the door on the other side of Mrs. Carnay's bedroom was open.

"Oh," he said. "That's your room. Is it. Well, you'd better get back into it, old chap. The ladies who occupy these rooms might be alarmed if they came in and found a stranger here."

Hugo grinned feebly. "I'm not a stranger," he said. "I belong here. I'm—I'm my wife's brother, you understand. My name isn't Smarke. I thought it was, didn't you, doctor? But that was just another little mistake they made at That Place. My name is John Smarke, and my wife's name isn't Mrs. Smarke at all. Her name is Mrs. Carnay. She's not my wife; she's my sister. And I'm not Alice's father. I'm her Uncle John. Perhaps you'd better tell me what you mean by coming into these rooms. I've been ill—a little light-headed with flu—but I've already got a doctor. My wife saw to that. I don't want anything to do with you, Ardeyne—or with anybody else from That Place."

Hugo stopped from sheer lack of breath and sank into a chair, exhausted and trembling. Ardeyne felt as though somebody had clubbed him half insensible. He stood there dazed.

And then—as poor Jean had anticipated might happen—Philip Ardeyne's anger rose hot against Alice's mother. It was she, poor, pitiful, silly woman, who had tried to engineer this clumsy deception. She had brought Smarke here, or he had been forced upon her, and she thought to pass him off as another man altogether. Alice must have been in the plot. Ardeyne shuddered. Then he thought of Carrie Egan, the widow of the man Smarke had slain. She was here, too—under the same roof. No wonder Mrs. Car-may had kept Smarke a prisoner. During the strained silence Hugo's uncanny brain leaped to a conclusion. "Ardeyne, are you the doctor Alice is engaged to?" he asked.

Ardeyne nodded without speaking. Hugo groaned and clasped his knees. "That's done it!" he exclaimed ruefully. "My wife—my sister. I mean—didn't want you to know. Well, as a matter of fact, she didn't want anybody to know. Doubtless you're prejudiced. You think because I was in That Place I must have been like all the rest of 'em. Jean is going to be dreadfully cross with me. What shall I do?"

"Nothing," Ardeyne said, finding his voice at last. "You needn't let Mrs. Carnay know that—that we've ever met before. Do you think you can keep it to yourself?"

Hugo looked craftily.

"Trust me. It was only that you took me by surprise. I'm not likely to fall into that pit again."

Philip Ardeyne went upstairs and out into the air. For the moment he was utterly confused. As he crossed the terrace one of the lift boys ran after him and gave him a note from Alice which should have been delivered before. Had he received it half an hour earlier he wouldn't have gone up to the Carnay's sitting room in the hope of finding her; he wouldn't have made that unpleasant discovery. For a whole week Hugo Smarke had been in the hotel, and so had Carrie Egan. And the woman who called herself Jean Carnay? Hadn't she known Mrs. Egan was here? It was possible that she hadn't.

The doctor tore open Alice's note. "Dearest: I've coaxed poor Mumsy out for a breath of air. She's nearly made herself ill looking after Uncle John, as you know. We have a little shopping to do and will be at the English tea gardens about 4 o'clock. Please forgive me for not showing up for tennis. Your own, ALICE."

HAGEN PLEDGES HIS BEST IN BRITISH OPEN TOURNEY

Says He Has Great Chance If His Game is as Stable As It Was During Winter

Declares Gene Sarazen is Adaptable and Will Soon Get Onto Mysteries of the Seaside Course at Troon.

BY WALTER HAGEN.
(British open champion and correspondent of The Constitution and of the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

New York, April 30.—When the giant Camarader Aquitania, already laden and with her fires up, moves out of her dock in the North River, I will be on my way to take part in the fourth British open championship.

This year's trip is vastly different from my other visits. I am returning to the Tigh Little Isle with the British cup in my possession and I will be in the position of defending champion instead of as heretofore with only hopes of some day winning the title.

I have been asked many times within the past few weeks if I expected to bring the cup back to America with me, which is more or less of a polite way of asking me if I was going to repeat my victory.

The American golfing public can feel assured that I will do the best I can in representing them abroad. I have always been given credit for having a lot of confidence. Sometimes it has not. When I played at Sandwich last year I happened to be playing very well. I never remember having gone into a championship with a feeling of more confidence than I had on that occasion.

When I played at Sandwich last year I happened to be playing very well. I never remember having gone into a championship with a feeling of more confidence than I had on that occasion.

My iron shots were also in good working order and I was putting very well. This combination gave me confidence that I might be able to hold otherwise. I certainly did not feel the same way on my other trips.

My playing in the west and south during this past winter has been very satisfactory. If I could enter the British championship with the same game that I left off with at Pinehurst, I would have a chance of winning this year would be very good.

Just how long one can go at top speed is problematical. I have tried to keep away from the game as much as possible for the last fortnight. I look forward to more or less of a rest on the boat going over, although I am taking along several golf balls to drive off my ship's deck.

NEW COURSE AT TROON THIS YEAR.
The course at Troon, where the British open championship will be played this year for the first time, is considered one of the severest tests of the game. However, from reports I have heard, many men transatlantic installed which will be not a premium on accurate playing.

The Troon links is just not only the American players, but to the British golfers as well. There will be previous little advantage to be had from this angle. All British seaside courses are more or less alike, just as our inland courses here resemble one another.

The Aquitania is carrying three other golfers besides myself who must be considered as having a chance of winning this championship. The players referred to are Gene Sarazen, the American open champion, who is making his first trip abroad; Joe Kirkwood, my partner, and Charlie Hoffer, of the Philadelphia district.

Kirkwood and Hoffer have both seen action abroad. Hoffer was a member of the American team two years ago at Sandwich.

Let us turn into the field in the American players, but to the British golfers as well. There will be previous little advantage to be had from this angle. All British seaside courses are more or less alike, just as our inland courses here resemble one another.

It is a little early to get a line on any of the trio.

We have not played much golf during the past two months. He will also be up against the problem of playing a seaside course and in a strange land. But Gene is a great little golfer and can adapt himself to conditions as well as anyone. I predict that he will make a very good showing at Troon.

Long Jim Barnes, I understand, is going over again. Jim has had considerable experience on the other side. I will always be glad to play with him on my way to the title. He was playing remarkably good golf and was a dangerous rival in every round. Jim's sharing in British championship has been notable. At Don he finished sixth, at St. Andrews he was sixth again, and at Sandwich last year's winner was tied with Dunlop for second place.

There are many excellent British golfers and one or two French stars to be considered very seriously this year. I will discuss their chances later (Continued on page 2).

Another Team Is Needed In League.
The Press League has a place for one more amateur team in the city, and applications will be received until Tuesday afternoon, according to an announcement made yesterday.

AMATEURS PLAY OUT OF TOWN THIS WEEK.
BY M. D. GLEASON.
Two of Atlanta's strongest independent teams will play out of town this week.

The Nu-Grape team will play at Manchester on Wednesday and in Newnan and LaGrange Thursday and Friday if good games can be arranged.

The World's Fair team will go to Milledale Saturday to play Milledale and may go to Platte, Ga., Thursday if final arrangements are made in time.

North Carolina Stages Rally and Ties Auburn

Game Called After Tenth Inning to Allow Teams to Catch Train—Final Score Was 3 to 3.

Montgomery, Ala., April 30.—(Special.)—With Auburn holding a one-run lead in the ninth inning, two singles, a sacrifice and a clean infield hit gave the North Carolina Tarheels the tying run at Cranton bowl Monday afternoon.

An extra session of batting failed to produce another tally and the game was called after the tenth with the count 3-3. It became necessary to bring the contest to a close to allow both teams to catch trains.

The game was a thriller all the way. Ed Shirling's powerful four-hitter, which included a home run, with Griffin on base in the first, being the main feature of the encounter. Shirling's blow was one of the best ever hit at Cranton bowl and rolled almost to the wire fence in deep sun garden territory.

The hit sent the Tigers into a tie with the Tarheels, the latter having pushed across a brace of rallies in the opener.

Forbes, for the visitors, pitched a splendid game allowing the Plainsmen but six singles. Shirling's homer accounted for two of the visitors' markers, while three bunched hits in the fourth gave Auburn her last lead.

Carbone Arrives in City For Fight With Stribling.

New York Fighter Has Excellent Record and Is Expected to Give Hard Fight.

MAY MEET WILSON.
Promoter Dominick Torricelli has authorized me as his personal representative at the Stribling-Carbone fight Thursday night.

The southern fighter, impressario has closed with Johnny Wilson for a match in New Orleans and in the event Stribling wins from Carbone, he wants to use the southern boy.

Happy Linton has announced his permanent retirement from the ring and Promoter Torricelli thinks Stribling is the logical southerner to meet the champion in the event he makes a good showing and wins from Carbone. Carbone is highly regarded in New Orleans and Promoter Torricelli sends me to get personal description of him.

(Signed) CLIFF ABBO.

Frankie Carbone, the New York middleweight, who will fight Young Stribling, the Macon, Fla., in a 10-round fight, being promoted by the 10th cavalry troop at Spiller's.

Carbone, who has been in the ring since 1924, has a record of 10 wins and 10 losses. He is a very powerful fighter and is expected to give a hard fight.

Young Stribling, who is in excellent condition and will round out his training in Macon and arrive here the afternoon of the fight, according to his father. Many fans were anxious for the Macon youngster to fight.

Prep Trophy Is Offered To Hold Prep Meet Today.

President Doyal of the prep league announced Monday that a meeting of the league representatives will be held in the Boys' High school building Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting is to meet Saturday afternoon for the prep track and swimming meets. The place for the meets is also to be decided. Grant field was originally named as the place of the meet, but it is not known at present just what day Grant field will be available. Efforts are on foot to have the track meet next Monday afternoon, the date set by the league directors early in January.

The swimming meet will be held next week. The place of the swimming meet has not yet been named as definite, but President Doyal and Al Doonan, commissioners of the prep league, are planning to hold the meet at East Lake. The meet has been held at East Lake for the past four or five years.

All the prep track teams are putting on a fine show of preparation in preparation for the annual city meet next week.

Tech High had a good workout at Severn Saturday, capturing the first place in the meet, largely through the wonderful work of Rosy Smith, Curran and Barber.

Commercial has one or two real stars on the track and the red and white lads are liable to cause some trouble next week. Boys' High also has much better track prospects this year than ever before.

Wickham Suspended.
Fort Smith, Ark., April 30.—Wickham, first baseman of the Joplin team of the Western association, will be suspended for the remainder of the season as a result of an attack on Frank Ferguson, pitcher for Fort Smith in yesterday's game. Ray Winders, president of the Joplin club announced today that Wickham, angered while he was at bat, walked to the pitcher's box and knocked Ferguson down. He issued a statement today expressing regret over the incident.

Hagen Marries.
New York, April 30.—Walter Hagen, American professional golfer who holds the British open championship, was married today to Mrs. Helen Crosby Straus, of West Long Branch, N. J. They will sail tomorrow on the Aquitania for Great Britain, where Hagen will defend his title in the British open championship in June at Troon, Scotland.

Short Sales in Cotton Risky At Present Time, Says Price

Market Expert Sees Little Incentive for Assuming Risks in Face of Statistical Position.

BY THEO. H. PRICE, Editor, Commerce and Finance.

New York, April 30.—The two inferences easily drawn from the recent action of the cotton market are, first, that holders of old crop cotton have ideas of values which are little influenced by fluctuations in futures or in speculative sentiment, and second, that the market is not altogether unimpaired of the fact that the coming crop still has all its peculiar hazards before it.

Evidences of the first may be found in the developments incident to the first May notices. While there are something over 40,000 bales of cotton in the New York stock and May had been selling at a premium, less than 8,000 bales were tendered on first notice. Apparently the decline to under 27 cents had led to the transferring of hedges against the local stock from May to July; presumably an expectation that the cotton would command better values before the end of the season. Moreover, the notices issued were promptly taken by spot interest and before the shorts who had been waiting for there is also a tendency to scale down estimates of the acreage.

So far this has not destroyed the hope of a substantially increased production, but the need of a much larger crop is being emphasized by renewed study of the statistical position and there has been enough that is unfavorable in the news from the fields to suggest the necessity for an early change in weather conditions and a generally good growing season. After a wet March and April the question of May weather would seem of extraordinary importance. If we have a month of dry warm weather the crop may reach the summer months in a promising condition. But a rainy May would certainly give cause for much anxiety, particularly in view of the shortage of labor for keeping the crop out of grass, and perhaps would not be going too far to say that the difference between a dry and a wet May this year would make a corresponding difference of 2 or 3 cents a pound in the price before the first of June.

Risk Is Large.

We shall, of course, have to await the event, but in the meantime it would seem that the goods to be freely marketed on the basis of present quotations for new crop deliveries, and while I do not wish to be understood as predicting price movements which will be so largely dependent upon weather conditions, I can see little incentive for assuming the risks of short sales in the face of the statistical position and the uncertainties of production.

The only feature in the cotton market this week has been the persistent buying of the May option supply, possibly by refiners. This has added some strength also to the balance of the list.

The demand for oil is naturally not as brisk as it was several months back, as compound is selling over hog lard, though the present rate of consumption will account for what oil still remains before new crop oil comes on the market. Any strength in the lard market will immediately be reflected in cotton oil.

The demand for May this week leads many to wonder what this buying means, and several predict that the May option may sell as high as fifty points over July if demand for the actual oil is made on the part of the long interest.

The cake and meal markets are very quiet, and it is about a dollar per ton in the valley and southeast from what they were a week ago.

Sharp Price Breaks Seen In Stock Market Monday

Popular Industrial Issues Drop 1 to 7 Points; Many to New Lows for Year.

DAY'S SUMMARY.

Day's total sales 1,134,000 shares.
20 industrials averaged 98.38; net loss 2.55.
High (1923) 103.38; low 99.96.
20 Railroads averaged 84.86; loss 1.74.
High (1923) 90.63; low 84.33.

New York, April 30.—Stock prices, after having fluctuated within a narrow three-point trading area since early in March, broke sharply in the last hour of today's stock market. Popular industrial issues dropped 1 to 7 points and railroad favorites 1 to 5 points below Saturday's final quotations, many of them to new low prices for the year.

The apparent failure of the market to respond to good news in the last few weeks, combined with unfavorable developments in the sugar and oil industries, encouraged bear operations, although there was nothing new in today's news to materially influence prices.

The rapidity of the decline, particularly in the last hour, when approximately 40 per cent of the day's business was transacted, resulted in the wiping out of a number of weakened marginal accounts. This forced liquidation, together with the general French francs eased slightly to 6.75.

May 1 requirements, accelerated the downward trend of the market. U. S. Steel broke below 104 for the first time this year, establishing a new low at 103.5 or 2-8 points below 4-4 last week's final sale. Other stocks which dropped to new low prices for the year included U. S. Alcoa at 50, Famous Players at 80, Crown Shells at 47, Sears, Roebuck at 21, Reading at 74 1/2, St. Paul at 92 1/2, and New York Central at 92 3/8, the extreme losses ranging from 1 to 6 points.

A heavy tone was apparent at the outset. Week-end reductions in the prices of refined sugar and a growing propaganda for a buyers' strike against wheat and other free offerings of the sugar shippers, which yielded readily to selling pressure. Reports of another cut in mid-continent wheat and other free offerings as excuse to depress the oil stocks.

The only outstanding stocks to show a net gain were Consolidated Cigar, National Cigar and S. L. and M. Mines. The latter two, each of which advanced about a point, but the turnover in each case was small.

Call money opened and renewed 1-4 per cent, but advanced to 6 in the late afternoon. Some short time loans were arranged at 5 1/4 per cent, but bankers continued to hold out for 5 1/2 per cent the longer the trading in commercial paper was quiet with prime names commanding 5 and 5 1/4 per cent.

Pre-holiday dullness in the European foreign exchange markets resulted in a small volume of business here, the principal rates showing little change on the day. Demand for sterling held steady at 100, the longer the trading in commercial paper was quiet with prime names commanding 5 and 5 1/4 per cent.

John Lital Is Given Big Welcome at the Forsyth

Something mighty close to a capacity house greeted John Lital's return last night to the Forsyth Players in "A Tailor-Made Man," after a vacation of several weeks, and unless we are miffing one badly the "S. R. O." sign is going up early at every performance this season for Mr. Lital is just that good in this very entertaining comedy-drama.

Lital's place as the male lead has been satisfactorily taken by many of the favorites at the Forsyth. Walter Marshall, for one, stepped in and came through with his colors flying higher than the flag at the top of the building. And only last week Rankin Mansfield carried himself right straight to glory.

But even while they admitted the splendid work done by these noble bunch-busters, Forsyth patrons were hungry for a sight of Lital. They saw him Monday night and at his very best. There are certain parts that Lital fits into as smoothly as a pebble over that portion of the banana we devour between meals.

In "A Tailor-Made Man" he drew one of those assignments. When he made his first appearance, Mr. Lital's nightgown lost no time telling him they glad they were to see him. They started applause that was continued until Lital appeared to be on the verge of raising his hands for silence, just like the Fourth of July orator as he makes the eagle scream.

This reception made everybody feel entirely at home and a fortunate line inserted by Harry B. Smith, who gave us the comedy added to the pleasure.

"Well, well, here we are altogether once more," was Mr. Lital's greeting to the participants who had gathered in his little glorifying establishment. Perhaps the playwright had the foresight to see that one of these days John Lital would be returning from a long vacation and inserted the greeting. Anyway, it helped everybody to get acquainted once more and from that time on no rough spot was encountered as the plot unfolded.

Splendid Voice.

He was in splendid voice, his vacation having done him worlds of good in this respect. He returned ready for hard work and looks to be physically fitted to do much of it during the next few weeks. The triumph he achieved in "The Bad Man," generally regarded as the best he has done since joining the Forsyth cast, was equalled, not exceeded, last night when he showed that it doesn't take even a good tailor to direct a

Loew Vaudeville.

(At Loew's Grand.)

An elaborate and colorful minstrel first part by the "Seven Honey Boys" is the leading feature of the vaudeville bill at Loew's Grand theater for the first half of the week, affording only enough entertainment, however, to create a desire for more of the same sort. Particularly appealing are the vocal numbers contributed by the entire company, the voices blending well and furnishing harmony chords that come only from a well drilled minstrel chorus. Jimmy O'Hara offers some excellent ballad singing. Tommy Hyde is still as nimble a buck and wing dancer as in former days and Happy Rowley, on the end, has a ready fund of wit. The balance of the company are pleasing in their parts.

Harry Mason and company offer an amusing comedy in three scenes, "Getting the Money," that is an excellent laugh medium. Mr. Mason in a Hebrew character is the life of the play.

Bernard and Leona in "The Caddy and His Fare," Paul and Georgia Hall in musical sketches and Raymond Pike, juggler and acrobat, complete a splendid vaudeville bill.

The feature of the screen program is Elaine Hammerstein in "Under Oath."

"You Can't Fool Your Wife."

(At the Howard.)

"You Can't Fool Your Wife," a Paramount picture featuring Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi, Lewis Stone and Pauline Garon, was the feature at the Howard theater last night when it was presented for the first time to an enthusiastic audience and was heartily received.

In the supporting cast are Paul McAllister, John Dally Murphy, Julia Swayne Gordon, Tom Carrihan and Dan Pennell playing the minor yet important roles. George Melford directed this production which is equivalent to saying that it is of the highest Paramount standard.

Ethel Clayton.

(At the Rialto.)

Love in all of its various phases is graphically depicted in "Can a Woman Love Twice?" Ethel Clayton's newest starring vehicle, being shown at the Rialto theater this week. Mother love, father love, the love of a child for her mother, the love of a woman for her husband and the simple, enduring love of a grand-daddy, all have been woven into a story which gives the glowing Miss Clayton the most charming role of her career. The Rialto program also includes the first of the Charlie Chaplin classics, entitled "Easy Street." As a prologue to the Rialto presents the new comedy featuring "In the Garden of My Heart," sung by Louie Ross Brown. This charming singer appeared at the Rialto last week and again for herself, this return engagement.

business where a million dollars is looked upon as most of us regard street car fare.

Miss Belle Bennett, leading lady, and Mary Huber, daughter of the tailor who employed the hero, was out of the action during two of the four acts, but in the first act it was good work on her part that helped carry the affair through successfully. In the third a short visit was marked by good acting, but it was her concluding stanza that Miss Bennett's finest work was done, her role calling for a bit of emotional acting that was perfectly done and not overdone, where many other artists would have erred.

Belle Bennett Pretty.

As the daughter of a poor tailor, Miss Bennett did not have the opportunity to display the stunning costumes which she wears with such effect. Her role called for simplicity and Miss Bennett was beautiful as she portrayed it.

Miss Alice Baker, as Mrs. Mark Stanshaw, was given a part that was well executed, while Miss Elmer McCune, Miss Grace Hayle, were splendidly received.

George Spelvin was given a great chance to show his artistry as Anton Huber, the tailor, and this difficult task was very well accomplished. Gus Forbes was another who drew a bit of characterization and delivered in his usual great form. Lyle Clement was particularly pleasing as Abraham Nathan and Rankin Mansfield as Theodore Jellison was nothing short of a "scream." Stuart Beebe effected a Scotch burr that could not be improved upon by a golf professional, while after far-shall and Robert W. Smiley were other of the "regulars" who were fine.

Others who contributed to the general success of "A Tailor-Made Man" were Eugene H. Egan, as the Rialto manager, Mr. W. J. Harkness, as the Rialto manager, Miss Mary McDonald and Miss Jean Scott.

JOHN T. McDONALD FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Southern railroad, and prominent fraternal order man, will be held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Payne Memorial Methodist church, Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben, Rev. John

Life Is Worth Living In Homes Like This

The cornerstones of civilization are the home, the church and the school, but the dearest place on earth is home. There is no altar more sacred, no shrine more blessed than that where children gather about the mother's knee and learn the first and best lessons of life.

It is a place worthy of the best you can put in it of material, skill, comfort, convenience and beauty.

LOVELY HOUSE AT CAPITOL VIEW

Here you have such a home in a community of home-owning, law-abiding and thrifty people, who make the best of neighbors. You buy it on the easiest possible terms, without a mortgage and with no expense to you for architect's fee, real estate commission or brokerage on a loan.

This is one of the most attractive brick veneer bungalows in Atlanta. It has seven rooms and bath, including living room, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen and three bedrooms, with oak floors, cement veranda floor, tile bathroom floor, medicine cabinet, built-in china closet and bookcases, ironing board folding into a cabinet, electrical connections in the baseboard of each room, mail box in which letters are deposited outside and received inside, a large basement with furnace installed, gas, electricity, and hot and cold water. It is a corner lot, 51x200 feet on an alley on a commanding site overlooking the country for miles around.

All this for $9,500 on easy terms, with no mortgage, paid for comfortably from your earnings.

Your rent will pay half the cost. How long are you going to slave and let your wife slave in a hired house?

Do you need something to jar you into action? Then remember that each year is a thief, stealing the joys of home life and stealing the color from your wife's cheeks.

Phone Mr. Settle, Walnut 2811, for appointment.

Iron and Steel Men Will Gather Today To Discuss Rates

Representatives from fifty iron and steel concerns in the southern and northeastern states met Monday at the chamber of commerce to discuss the proposed revision of freight rates on iron and steel, by the carriers. While the meeting was executive it was understood that it was preliminary to a joint meeting to be held by a committee representing the railroads, and the steel interests today in the Transportation building. This meeting will also be executive, it was said.

To Builders and Investors

Brookhaven Heights is just off of Peachtree Road, opposite the Capital City Country Club. In the original survey we had 416 lots and one old house. Now there are close to 100 houses owned by the people living in them. We have put in city water and lights. Four houses in course of construction now. We have only 21 lots left unsold, prices from $5,000 to $1,250. Close to car line, day and night service. We want to close out the remaining lots at once and will make attractive terms. Make an engagement with us and let us show you what we have left.

YORK'S HOME COUNTY PAYS WOMAN HONOR

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 30.—Honor county, the home of Alvin York, world war hero, has come into the limelight with another distinct recognition, when Chancellor W. R. Officer, a few days ago named Mrs. Henriette Alfred, wife of a lawyer of Jamestown, clerk and master of his court. This is the first woman to be so honored in Tennessee. Mrs. Alfred is the daughter of a confederate soldier, although a native of Indiana. She has been head of the primary department of the Livingston academy for a number of years and editor of the literature of the Church of Christ, by the way, a church with which Alvin York is affiliated.

Mrs. Wellred: "When you were in France I suppose you saw the great tracts of barren waste." Mrs. Gaudin: "Oh, my, yes. He has a wonderful estate."—Chaparral.

"Dear sir," writes a woman, "our family name is Legg and we have a months-old baby boy. I have named him Walter, but his father has begun calling him Boot and the nickname sticks. If you were I what would you do about it? I don't want one of the children known as Boot Legg."—New York World.
